American Trans-Atlantic Fliers Arrive In Istanbul

BELIEVED TO HAVE BROKEN WORLD MARK

Boardman and Polando Land in Turkey After 49 Hours Battling Fog

TRAVEL 5000 MILES

Daring Aviators Only Few Minutes Behind Schedule — Given Reception

ISTANBUL, Turkey,—(By Trans-Atlantic Telephone from London)—(UP)—Two New England aviators, after a flight of approximately 5,000 miles through fog and wind over the Atlantic and down through Europe, brought their black and yellow monoplane to earth here today, claimants to the world record for distance flying in a straight line.

The fliers, Russell N. Boardman and John Polando, left New York at 4:50 a. m., E.S.T., on Tuesday and landed here at 6:16 a. m., E.S.T., today, making the flight in 49 hours and 17 minutes.

Their arrival at their destination after what must have been thousands of miles of blind flying, was a remarkable achievement of navigation. The plane, probably flying high and fast, was not sighted or reported at any point along the route, except when it passed out to sea over New Foundland, and even then it was not identified.

Crowd on Hand

The Cape Cod came down at the Yechilkey airdrome to be received by cheering throngs. Aided by a strong following wind, it circled in to the field in glitteringly brilliant sunshine, which had replaced a cloudy morning.

Joseph C. Grew, the American ambassador, who had waited for the fliers since 3 a. m., was the first to greet them and shake their hands. The crowd closed in and the fliers were taken to the center of the airdrome where they were given an ovation.

The fliers emerged from the plane smiling modestly but delighted by their reception. They seemed a little dazed from their long hours in the air.

Meet Governor

Grew presented them to the governor of Constantinople, Miheddin Bey, and other officials. The governor's spokesman, speaking in English, said:

"We welcome you to Turkey. Our state is pleased to have the honor of receiving the heroes of a record flight, and appreciates your making Istanbul your distant objective."

Boardman presented the governor with a sealed packet for Mustapha Kemel, president of Turkey. The packet had a parachute inserted under its strings.

Polando described the trip as "most successful." The fliers reached here almost exactly on schedule, within a few minutes of the time they had set. Polando said they lost much time crossing Europe.

"We had to feel our way," he said, "and fly low at times to negotiate the passes."

Japs Awake To Find Bed Floating About

LOS ANGELES, July 30.—(UP)—Sleeping peacefully in the expectation of "continued fair weather; low humidity," two Japanese were nearly drowned early today when a flood swept into their basement quarters in the heart of Hollywood.

Their communal bed was touching the roof when they awoke.

The deluge, caused by a burst water main in Yucca street, a few hundred feet off Hollywood boulevard, flooded apartment house basements, uprooted new-laid pavement and stopped traffic in a three-block radius before firemen stopped the flow.

MARTIAL LAW IS DECLARED IN SHANGHAI

Proclamation Says Decree Will Be in Effect at Least Three Days

SHANGHAI, July 30.—(UP)—Martial law was proclaimed in Shanghai today.

The proclamation said the decree would remain in effect three days.

The order followed President Chiang Kai-Shek's recent declaration of war against rebel forces in Canton, to the far south, and the Peiping and Tientsin area in the north.

The rebellions in the north and south have been aggravated by serious damage and loss of life in the worst floods in recent years throughout the rich Yangtze valley area. Communications have been disrupted, crops lost and hundreds drowned. Unrest has grown in Shanghai as a result and trouble was feared.

It is presumed the martial law decree referred to above affects only the Chinese area of Shanghai, around the large foreign sections of the city, ruled by foreign city councils and police.

Martial law also was proclaimed in Hankow, badly affected by the Yangtze floods.

The decree was issued in Shanghai, it was believed, because Chiang Kai-Shek plans to attend the funeral of his mother-in-law.

The international settlement and the French concession, the large foreign-controlled areas in Shanghai, were not affected by the order.

COUNTESS TOLSTOY LANDS IN AMERICA

SAN FRANCISCO, July 30.—Countess Alexandra Tolstoy, daughter of Count Leo Tolstoy, famous Russian novelist, visited San Francisco today after her arrival from Japan.

Remaining true to her principles, the countess traveled third class on the boat and was compelled to submit to a medical examination at Angel's island, required by immigration authorities for such passengers.

Countess Alexandra said she planned a lecture tour and later will join her brother in New York. She made no mention of plans she announced in Japan to enter Canada and edit a newspaper for the Doukhobors, a Russian sect befriended by her father.

FOUR FIREMEN ARE INJURED IN BLAZE

SAN FRANCISCO, July 30.—(UP)—Four firemen were hurt, two seriously, in a spectacular three-alarm fire that swept a group of industrial buildings here early today and caused damage estimated at $20,000.

Lieutenant John Cafferty suffered a broken leg when he fell down a flight of stairs and Walter Cull, an engineman, fell off a ladder and received spine injuries that may leave him a cripple, physicians said. Two other firemen incurred cuts and bruises.

The flames started on the second floor of a cabinet works and quickly spread to an adjoining plant.

FORMER SECRETARY OF WAR LAUDS DISARMAMENT PLANS

NEW BUILDING PLANNED FOR FOURTH, MAIN

Mrs. Emma French Reveals Plans for Half Million Project

ERECTION OF A $125,000 building on the French property at the northeast corner of Fourth and Main streets was practically assured today, it was learned from authentic sources. The building that is to be erected will be either a three or four story building, according to a statement made today by Mrs. Emma L. French, who owns the property that is said to be valued at over $300,000. The total investment in the project, including the building, lot and other items, is expected to run over half a million dollars.

Mrs. French plans to purchase an additional 22 feet of property east of the Fourth street line, she announced today. With this addition, the property will be 100 feet long on Main street and 120 feet on Fourth. The property to be purchased will involve an expenditure of over $40,000 in addition to the amount to be expended on the building.

Steve Rehwold, who is said to be promoting the venture, is representing a firm in San Bernardino headed by Dade Davis, according to reports. A group of prominent citizens of Santa Ana, including bank officers and others, are interested in the deal and will help supply the funds for the erection of the building, it was said. The building is to be a modern steel frame building with a full size basement.

It will be necessary for the group of investors to incorporate before the deal can be consummated, it was said. While the deal was not completed today, final arrangements are expected to be made by Monday.

Rumors to the effect that an extensive building program would be staged on the property have been prevalent for the past two years. For a long time lessees in the building have been renting on short time contracts and many of them have moved from the building. Mrs. French has lost thousands of dollars through the

RICH GOLD VEIN IS FOUND IN SONORA

NOGALES, Ariz., July 30.—(UP)—A vein of gold assaying approximately $100,163 to the ton has been found in the Victoria mine, in the Altar district of Sonora, it was reported here today.

The assay was made from a sample several inches wide by Mark Wanless, Nogales assayer. The quartz was brought here by B. D. Buckeridge, Fort Worth oil promoter, who recently acquired the property from F. F. Saldamando, Nogales, Sonora, druggist.

Chief Howard Acts To End Operation Of Punch Boards

With the slot machine situation in Santa Ana "under control," with no machines operating in violation of the law, according to Chief of Police F. W. Howard, his attention has been directed to the fact that punch boards were in operation here.

Only two have been found in operation in Santa Ana, Howard said. In both instances a request to get rid of the boards was sufficient for the merchants to take them from their counters, the chief reported.

Both boards were what are known as candy boards. If a lucky number is punched, the players get a box of candy. No boards have been confiscated, it is learned.

Labor Heads Move To Aid Unemployed

Outline Plan Which They Believe Will Prevent Suffering Later

WASHINGTON, July 30.—(UP)—Organized labor has stepped into the labor situation in an effort to prevent the impact of reduced industrial earnings from falling with undue weight upon the shoulders of the employee-consumer.

The American Federation of Labor today came forward with a program it believes would prevent suffering next winter due to unemployment.. This program calls for:

1.—Shortening of work hours to distribute employment.

2.—Employment guarantees; promises from management that those now employed will be held through the winter so that the fear of unemployment which tends to encourage hoarding could be dissipated.

3.—Creation of more work, public and private, even chores around homes.

4.—Collection of funds for relief, both municipal and private. The federation's proposal for a shorter work week drew favorable comment from William N. Doak, secretary of labor. He said he favored a five-day week and six-hour day and said the shorter work period "may be the solution" of the unemployment difficulty. But the labor department can do nothing about the situation, Doak added.

The federation made no reference to the question of reduced wages against which the White House is continuing its warfare.

In proposing its program, the federation declared unemployment is "growing more critical" despite a seasonal improvement due to the harvest season.

"We must look forward to a worse unemployment problem next winter than last," the federation stated.

This action follows that of executives of railroad labor organizations. They declared railroad wages must not be reduced in event the railroads fail to obtain their 15 per cent freight rate increase. Any attempt at reduction would be "resisted," the labor executives warned.

MRS. MOODY MEETS MISS JACOBS NEXT

SEABRIGHT, N. J., July 30.—(UP)—Mrs. Helen Wills Moody, champion of all the world, and her arch rival, Miss Helen Jacobs of Berkeley, Calif., will meet for the eighth time Saturday, this time in the finals of the 44th annual Seabright tennis tournament.

Mrs. Moody advanced to the final round today with a 6-4, 6-3 victory over Mrs. Marion Z. Jessup, Wilmington, Dela., veterans, while Miss Jacobs won over Mrs. Lawrence Harper, another Californian, when Mrs. Harper defaulted in the second set after losing the first, 6-3.

Mrs. Moody was forced to the limit. Had the champion not been in top form, Mrs. Jessup would undoubtedly have accomplished the impossible for the Wilmington woman played some of the finest tennis ever seen on these courts.

COL. LINDBERGH TAKES OFF FOR OTTAWA TODAY

Famous Flier and Wife Bid Farewell to Baby and Head for Canada

BULLETIN

NEW YORK, July 30.—(UP)—Colonel and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh landed at Ottawa at 5:22 p. m., E.D.T., American Airways was advised by radio from the plane today.

NORTH HAVEN, Me., July 30.—(UP) — Colonel and Mrs. Charles Lindbergh left their last United States port of call at 2:10 p. m. today and headed for the Canadian border and Ottawa, first foreign stop in their aerial cruise to the orient.

Just before lifting their heavy Lockheed-Sirius monoplane off the placid waters of Penobscot bay, the Lindberghs took fond leave of their 14 months old son and the family of United States Senator Dwight W. Morrow, Mrs. Lindbergh's father.

A stiff southwest wind which compelled them to forsake a contemplated landing near the Morrow property at the west end of the island late yesterday had subsided as Colonel Lindbergh slid the pontooned monoplane over the smooth waters between here and Vinal Haven to a graceful takeoff.

Fog which settled over the island during the night had lifted and witnesses of the departure were able to follow the plane's course for several minutes as it circled and turned toward its northwestern destination.

The comparatively short hop to Ottawa, about 350 miles away, should be traversed by the swift ship in around three hours.

Weather reports were that good visibility prevailed over northern New England and the short Canadian stretch to Ottawa. The region was partly cloudy, but there was adequate ceiling.

SANTA BARBARA HAS HORSE THEFT CASE

SANTA BARBARA, July 30.—(UP)—Will Davis, local youth, accused of stealing a horse, is scheduled to go on trial today before Superior Judge William H. Dehy on a charge of grand theft.

The trial of Davis will mark the first time that an alleged horse-thief has been tried in Santa Barbara county since the days when lynchings were the order of the day for such offenses.

Davis assertedly stole a horse from a nearby ranch.

LONDON, July 30.—(UP)—The Prince of Wales, driving his own car, was in violent collision with another car outside the Sunningdale Golf club today.

He was considerably shaken although otherwise uninjured. He was emerging from the club after a round of golf when the accident occurred.

Moratorium Is Cited As Great Move

Newton D. Baker Speaks at Convocation of Institute of Politics

WILLIAMSTOWN, Mass., July 30.—(UP)—President Hoover's moratorium, "completely at variance with all the doctrines and fixed resolutions proclaimed from Washington," nevertheless demonstrated, by the unanimous approval with which the American people received it, "how far the people have gone ahead of their government," former Secretary of War Newton D. Baker declared today in an address prepared for the convocation of the Institute of Politics.

After tracing the important part played in world politics by the American people and particularly American financial and political geniuses, Baker turned to the present situation as a dramatic instance of "the subjection of the world to democratic influences."

The former Wilson cabinet member lauded the work of "great and enlightened American citizens" who have "participated in and aided practically all the constructive work undertaken by the League of Nations," citing particularly Elihu Root, Charles G. Dawes, Owen D. Young and the experts grouped around them, together with official and semi-official organizations contributing to world understanding.

Effect of Work

"A striking instance of the effect of this work," he said, "was seen when President Hoover suddenly and without preliminary preparation of the public mind, announced his plan for a moratorium upon German reparatiton payments ....Continuously for several years prior to this announcement, official Washington had set its face against any consideration and modification of the so-called debt settlement, and it resolutely asserted that German reparattion payments had no relation to payments under the American debt settlement....There could be no doubt that Washington listened with an anxious ear when

STANDARD-VACUUM MERGER APPROVED

NEW YORK, July 30.—(UP)—Stockholders of both Standard Oil Company of New York and Vacuum Oil Company today approved consolidation of the two companies, paving the way for a billion dollar union.

Consolidation will be effected by formation of a new company, Socony-Vacuum corporation, which will exchange its stock for that of the two units. Standard Oil of New York will receive share for share, while Vacuum will receive 2 1-2 shares of the new company stock for each share.

The merger proposal was first made more than a year ago at which time the stock exchange basis was set at three Standard for each Vacuum. The better terms for Standard were agreed upon following a change in the market prices of the two stocks.

GOV. MURRAY MAY TAKE COMPROMISE

TULSA, Okla., July 30.—(UP)—Possibility that Gov. W. H. Murray, threatening to close down all flush fields in the state unless the price of crude oil reaches $1 a barrel by Saturday, might accept a compromise of 72 or 75 cents, was discussed today in petroleum circles. Many operators expressed the feeling that if heads of purchasing companies would increase oil prices to 72 or 75 cents—what it costs to bring East Texas crude into the state—the chief executive would allow the fields to continue production. If a compromise cannot be effected, oil men were convinced Murray will carry out his order and post National Guardsmen throughout the oil belt to see that his shutdown edict is enforced.

WILL ROGERS says:

BEVERLY HILLS, July 30.—[To the Editor of The Register:] Been reading of our army survey of a new canal by Col. Dan Sultan, but what you haven't read is the wonderful work that he and his crew did during the Nicaragua earthquake. He moved in with his whole outfit, among which were some splendid doctors, and they worked day and night there. They and the marines were in the right place at the right time that time. He explained the canal to me down there. Folks that like to dig canals, there is a good place to dig. One there cost $700,000,000, but Lord, the way we are going what's seven hundred more million in hock for us. We are sunk anyhow, so let's get a series of canals, then save the best one.

Yours,
WILL ROGERS.

GRAF ZEPPELIN AT LENINGRAD ON WAY HOME

Great Dirigible is Making Fast Time on Return From Arctic

BERLIN, July 30.—(UP)—The Graf Zeppelin successfully completed its trip into the arctic and return when it landed at the Templehof airdrome this evening.

LENINGRAD, Soviet Russia, July 30.—(UP)—The Graf Zeppelin, returning from a cruise toward the north pole, passed over Leningrad today on the way back to Germany.

The great dirigible was sighted over the city at 6 a. m. It proceeded toward Berlin.

The Graf Zeppelin radioed that it had flown over Lake Onega, some 200 miles northeast of Leningrad, at 10:30 p. m. last night. It made rapid time from the arctic, having been reported over Archangel at 8 p. m.

The dirigible, carrying 16 passengers and a crew of 30, was commanded by Dr. Hugo Eckener. It made the brief cruise into the arctic without incident, making contact with the Soviet icebreaker Malygin on Monday and proceeding toward the pole and back without difficulty.

Benbough, appointed May 4 to re-organize the police department after San Diego had four unsolved murders in three months, has been under fire for the past few weeks.

Councilman J. V. Alexander, leader of Benbough's critics charged in open council that Benbough was permitting the town to "stay wide open" and succeeded in having a resolution adopted by the council Monday directing Benbough to "put the lid on."

JUDGE TAKES CASE UNDER ADVISEMENT

Refuses to Sentence Gang Leader Under Compromise Agreement Plan

WILL RULE FRIDAY

Arrangements Between Gangster and Federal Attorneys Hit By Judge

CHICAGO, July 30.—(UP)—Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson today refused to sentence Al Capone under a compromise agreement, and took a motion to withdraw the gang leader's pleas of guilty under advisement until 2 p. m. tomorrow.

Judge Wilkerson's action came after a day of surprises in what was to have been merely the formal sentencing of Capone on the guilty pleas he entered two months ago to indictments charging income tax evasion and prohibition conspiracy.

Judge Wilkerson gave the first authentic hint of a compromise on Capone's sentence by reading a statement refusing to be bound by the negotiations that preceded the gangster's surrender.

The warning threw the Capone attorneys into confusion. They explained they had entered a plea of guilty for "Scarface" with the understanding that certain recommendations would be made by District Attorney George E. Q. Johnson and followed by the court.

The recommendations, Michael Ahern of Capone's staff said, were concurred in by the United States attorney general and an assistant secretary of the treasury before Capone gave himself up.

But for the compromise, Ahern continued, Capone would not have entered a plea of guilty on the double-barreled indictments. Capone expected, Ahern said, that the recommendations would be accepted by the court.

Judge Wilkerson replied by insisting he could not regard the compromise as other than a suggestion to him. He declared he wanted Capone to understand the guilty pleas were in the records unqualifiedly.

The judge pointed out that he could be influenced by evidence favorable to Capone if it were brought out in the hearing proceeding sentence, but as matters stood, the guilty pleas were all that the court had to guide it.

Judge Wilkerson refused to sentence Capone under the conditions represented to have been exacted by the gangster's attorneys. He told the counsel that he would have to proceed with a free hand.

Capone drummed nervously on the table as he sat in the front of the courtroom awaiting the outcome of the proceedings. He had been carefree earlier in the day.

CATHOLICS PROTEST AGAINST OPPRESSION

MEXICO CITY, July 30.—(UP)—A protest to President Ortiz Rubio against the alleged oppression of the Catholic churches in the states of Vera Cruz and Tabasco was made public by Archbishop Fuiz y Flores, apostolic delegate.

The state of Vera Cruz recently inaugurated a law reducing the number of priests in the state to one for each 100,000 persons. Disorders have resulted.

The apostolic delegate charged that the state governments of Vera Cruz and Tobasco had violated the constitution and ignored the 1929 settlement of the dispute between the Catholic church and Mexico.

BETHLEHEM STEEL SLASHES DIVIDEND

NEW YORK, July 30.—(UP)—Bethlehem Steel corporation directors today reduced the annual dividend basis from $4 to $2.

The $4 annual dividend was in effect from May 15 last when the rate was reduced from $6 annually.

CITY ACTION TO RECOVER TAX SUBMITTED

Suit of the city of Santa Ana against Orange county for collection of approximately $30,000 claimed as due the city through penalties collected by the county on delinquent city taxes, was submitted on briefs this morning when the case was called before Superior Judge H. G. Ames.

William Menton represented the county in the action and Clyde Downing, city attorney, aided by Albert Launer, attorney for the city of Fullerton, and his associate, W. B. Wade, and Milburn Harvey, Laguna Beach city attorney, were associated in representing the city of Santa Ana. The cities of Fullerton, Laguna Beach and Tustin also have similar actions pending against the county.

Facts in the case were stipulated, with attorneys for both sides allowing the decision to depend on the legality of the city's claim.

Action was brought to regain penalties and interest accruing since 1916, when the city of Santa Ana elected to have the county assess and collect municipal taxes. The county auditor, since that time, has regarded it as proper to retain for the county all penalties in the case of delinquencies, turning over to the city only the actual amount of the taxes collected.

County collection of taxes is being made for the cities of Santa Ana, Fullerton, Laguna Beach, Tustin, Seal Beach, La Habra and San Clemente. The city of Fullerton has pending a suit seeking the return of approximately $3000 in penalties and Laguna Beach and Tustin are claiming smaller amounts on similar actions.

Drop Case As Couple Decide To Try Again

A charge of non-support of four months old baby against R. G. Brooks, Santa Ana man, was dismissed in Justice Kenneth Morrison's court today, when the husband and wife faced each other and then decided to start living together again.

The family lives at 937 East Myrtle street. Brooks was arrested early this week on the charge.

WAGE SCALE TO BE DETERMINED BY BUILDERS

To assist in compiling data on the prevailing wage scale paid in Santa Ana and Orange county there will be a meeting of the various branches of the construction industry held under the auspices of the Orange County Builders' exchange in the council chambers of the city hall next Tuesday at 7:30 p. m., it was revealed today.

The adoption of such a scale is necessitated by the passage of Senate bill No. 26 at the last session of the state legislature and applies to work done on public buildings, such as schools, state buildings, county buildings, city buildings, etc.

Contractors, county and city officials and representatives, and representatives of school boards are invited to attend the meeting. After the prevailing wage scale has been determined, it will be submitted for the approval of public bodies throughout the county.

A questionnaire on the general prevailing wage has been sent to many contractors and others in all cities in the county. The questionnaire asks that the prevailing wage paid bricklayers, all classes of carpenters, cabinet makers, cement finishers and helpers, electricians and helpers, hodcarriers, common laborers, lathers, painters, plasterers and helpers, plumbers and helpers, all classes of roofers, sheet metal workers, steam fitters, stone masons, tilesetters and all labor not incuded above be listed. It is also asked what the rates are that are being paid now and what the recomended wages for an 8-hour day are.

PASADENAN ARRESTED

T. L. Walters, Pasadena man, former resident of Orange, was held to answer to the superior court from the Orange justice court today on a charge of failure to provide.

TRANSATLANTIC FLIERS ARRIVE IN ISTANBUL

The Atlantic crossing, he said, was extraordinarily smooth and they had expected to arrive earlier, but conditions over the continent were rough and bumpy, impeding their progress. A strong wind was blowing last night.

Polando spoke briefly to the crowd in Turkish, thanking them for the reception and expressing pleasure at the success of the flight. The fliers then were taken to an automobile to start the round of entertainments planned by the ambassador and governor, after they have had some sleep.

GLOBE CIRCLING PLANE CONTINUES

The fliers landed here at 8:14 a.m., (2:14 a. m., E.S.T.) their second stop after a successful trans-Atlantic crossing.

Herndon and Pangborn, after an uneventful Atlantic crossing, landing near Moylegrove last eveing. They spent the night and left at 6:15 a. m. (12:15 a. m., E.S.T.) for Croydon. They landed here in a drizzling rain under overcast skies. Visibility was poor.

Moscow is their next scheduled stop, and the original destination of the fliers who had hoped to make a nonstop flight to Russia from New York. Fog forced down last night, they said.

The thick mist which caused them to land was dispelled as the sun rose at Moylegrove, but they ran into showers and low clouds again as they flew eastward to Croydon.

Pangborn, although disappointed at failure to reach Moscow in one cruise, expressed confidence in their venture when questioned by the United Press correspondent.

"Betcher life we'll beat the record," he said. "We couldn't risk our lives like this unless we were pretty confident."

The transatlantic fliers flew to Croydon from Boylegrove in a drizzle, but the rain stopped as they landed at the airport.

"We attempted to locate Croydon several times late yesterday," Pangborn said, "but it was so cloudy and foggy that we finally abandoned the effort."

He said they flew above the fog sometimes going up between 4000 and 15,000 feet over the Atlantic. They said they saw the sea only once the whole way over and that for an hour and a half one time they had to fly "blind" through heavy fog.

URGES WOMEN TO CONTINUE LIQUOR FIGHT

Pointing out the importance of enforcement of the eighteenth amendment, Lt. Gov. Frank F. Merriam, concisely outlined the part the W. C. T. U. played in bringing about this measure and its responsibility in seeing that liquor laws in effect are enforced, when he spoke to members of the Orange County Women's Temperance Union at Irvine park yesterday.

"The W. C. T. U. should be given the credit of having placed the eighteenth amendment on the statute books of the nation," the speaker declared. "You placed the measure before the people and the people accepted it," said the lieutenant governor.

"We are in the midst of a terrific crisis. Many do not realize this fact and many more lay to eighteenth amendment everything that is wrong — unemployment, bootlegging, low prices for farm products and lack of trade.

"Some farmers blame the W. C. T. U. because hops, grain and barley cannot be made into fermented liquors and do not give prohibition credit for the fine economic condition that exists, when never have children been better clothed and housed.

Need Faith

"Edison said recently that if prohibition has not accomplished anything else, it has kept wives and mothers from coming to his factory on paydays to get a small part of their husbands' and sons' checks. The present crisis calls for the same confidence and faith we had prior to 1918. When the eighteenth amendment was passed, it was a wonderful victory. People thought the victory won and public sentiment sagged. New conditions now confront us which call for different lines of work necessary to meet events in a new way. I congratulate the W. C. T. U. for meeting this situation in a wonderful way and the victory which has been won, must be brought to success by this organization.

"The Anti-Saloon League is a wonderful organization but it falls back on the W. C. T. U. for support. The W. C. T. U. has met with tremendous assault in its work of support of the eighteenth amendment. No proposition ever met with such opposition and no opposition was ever so financed. I have confidence that the education of public sentiment must be the means of the observance of the eighteenth amendment. The W. C. T. U. must help to make it unpopular to flaunt the laws of the United States.

Elect Right Officers

"Laws are enforced by public sentiment. We need more of the old fighting spirit and if we are to be successful, we must fight as we never fought before. Officers must be elected who will enforce the laws.

"It should be the duty of every Californian to see that dry delegates are elected to represent them at both the democratic and the republican conventions next summer when presidential candidates will be chosen. I believe there is no doubt about Hoover's selection for this position by the republicans. The question of who will be the delegates already is being considered.

"A man from the Anti-Saloon league recently told me that Hoover had said to him, 'My star shall rise or fall, I shall sink or swim with the enforcement of the eighteenth amendment.'

"Every generation must have its education. It is necessary to have to tell the story every decade to the thousands who know nothing of the evils of the saloons from experience and many of whom look on the situation as not so bad as represented. Young people must be enlisted in the cause. They must be taught the necessity of the eighteenth amendment. Every day 6000 young people are becoming of voting age. Propaganda must be met with propaganda."

School Man Talks

B. F. Beswick, of Tustin, general supervisor of the county schools, gave an interesting resume of scientific temperance in the rural schools. He suggested that careful selection be made of topics for essay writing and said that he believed that a history of the bootlegger would be beneficial as many children were led to believe that the bootlegger had been made by the eighteenth amendment, when in reality he had existed ever since the fight against liquor began. He also suggested that a campaign be inaugurated to teach young people that criminals were not being made by the eighteenth amendment.

In closing Beswick said "We are just beginning to find out that the work wasn't finished with the passing of the eighteenth amendment."

Lieutenant Governor Merriam was introduced by Mrs. Estelle Harper of Garden Grove, president of the county union, and vivid pictures of the World's W. C. T. U. convention were presented by Mrs. Annie Garretson of La Habra and Pearl Kendall Hess and preceded the principal address. Senator Nels T. Edwards was introduced and made a brief talk. Devotions were in charge of Mrs. C. F. Smith. Little Miss Margaret Davies gave a piano and a violin solo. Mrs. Jessie Johnson sang two vocal solos, accompanied by Mrs. Robert Korff. Tustin women were hostesses to the group of county women and luncheon was served at noon. Mrs. Helen Finley, president of the Tustin union, was the accompanist for the group singing.

County Budget To Be Filed By Lambert

In compliance with the law which set today as the final date for filing budget requirements of all county departments for the fiscal year 1931-32, County Auditor William Lambert was preparing to file Orange county's tentative budget late today.

Requests from the various departments have been received during the past 30 days and Lambert has arranged them for presentation to the supervisors. The compilation this year has been a gigantic task due to the necessity for more rigid economy without curtailment of administrative efficiency, according to Lambert.

FACULTY MEMBER ATTENDS SEMINAR

Althouh Mr. and Mrs. John A. Tessmann, 309 East Seventeenth street, were compelled to cut short their summer vacation visit to Mexico City because the altitude affected Tessmann's heart, they were in the Mexican capital city long enough for Mrs. Tessmann to attend the seminar conducted at the university by the Committee on Cultural Relations for Latin America.

It was this seminar that provided the chief reason for the Santa Anans to make Mexico City their objective this year, and Mrs. Tessmann of the Santa Ana junior college faculty, was privileged to attend the lectures and field trips of the seminar, losing only about three days of general discussion when it was found that her husband must seek a lower altitude.

During their absence, the Santa Anans also visited Pueblo and Cuernavaca. They reached this city late last week.

Methodist Pastors Continue Service

All Orange county pastors of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, have been returned to their churches for another year according to the Rev. C. M. Akers, pastor of the Spurgeon Memorial church in this city, who has just returned from the annual conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, held in San Francisco. According to Reverend Akers, the Rev. H. L. Thatcher was reassigned to his pastorate at Anaheim and Rev. O. E. Laird was sent back to his congregation at Greenville.

The only change in this section was made at Norwalk where the Rev Dr. H. W. Jamieson was replaced by Rev. T. L. Lallance. Reverend Jamieson goes to Los Angeles as assistant to the Rev. Robert Shuler.

"Singing Cop" Is Sued for Divorce

Because George Stinson, Orange county's "singing cop" and a member of the California state highway patrol, refused to take her out to public places, told her that he did not desire her as either wife or companion and was sorry that he had ever married and she would always be a drag upon his career, his wife, Myrtle Stinson, has filed suit for divorce, asking custody of the three children born to the couple and $70 monthly for support of herself and children.

The Stinsons were married April 21, 1924, and separated June 30, 1931.

length of time it has taken to organize a group of men capable of handling the deal, she declared today.

Mrs. French has granted two options on the property during the last two years, the first of which failed to bear fruit and which was supposed to have been made through the Los Angeles Investment company. The second is the one upon which the present transactions are being based.

There have been 20 corporations who have come to Mrs. French during the past two years with offers to build on the property but each wanted to build a two story building or had a proposition that was not acceptable, it was learned today.

Rehwold, who is located at the Orange County Title company office on North Main street while in Santa Ana, was expected to be in town this afternoon to confer with local men on the matter.

the situation in Germany became such that immediate and drastic action, which no country but the United States was in a position to take, became necessary to save the whole European industrial and financial situation.

"And if there was joy," he continued, "there must also have been surprise when it was discovered that the people of the United States had long since reached a conclusion upon a subject which Washington, until then, had declined to consider, and that the action of the president, completely at variance with all the doctrines and fixed resolutions proclaimed from Washington, was not only heartily welcomed and approved, but by unanimous consent was declared to be the most conspicuous act of high statesmanship in his career.

Baker urged the putting aside of such questions as to "whether or not the president's action might not have been taken much earlier," in the interest of present day cooperation.

Earlier in his address, the former war secretary declared his belief that " the United States ought to declare as a fundamental doctrine of its national policy that it will not trade with any nation at war which has been declared, by a competent tribunal, to be the aggressor."

Part of People

Baker emphasized "the part in which peoples are to play and are playing in the readjustment of the world," and the extent to which there have grown up in all countries voluntary agencies to study international relations and, "by informing public opinion, mobilize it in support of the institutions established by the statesmen, as the formal expression of the new method."

The speaker again emphasized that the "new spirit" of co-operation between the people of America and those of Europe has grown up despite the fact that "our government has preached and practiced isolation."

Referring to Russia, he said the Soviet republic "has asked the rest of the world several di sconcerting, if not destructive questions, which it may be that she herself has not yet satisfactorily answered, but which challenge us to try to answed them about our own situation."

He pointed out that while the problem of the rest of the world is to forge ahead, Russia's problem is to "catch up," and indicated that to his mind the so-called "five-year plan" is essentially the movement by which, without any announcement of a definite scheme, "the Japanese built a technology and became an industrial nation in an incredibly short space of time."

Referring to disarmament, Baker said that "all progress is an illusion if there impends over it the possibility of the disaster of world war.

"The approaching disarmament conference will probably show us," he said, "whether the size and destructive power of that pistol is to be increased or decreased, or the hand rendered more unsteady."

FLOOD CONTROL ENGINEERS ARE CHECKING SITE

Final report on Orange county's proposed flood control and water conservation project, including a proposed dam and reservoir at Trabuco canyon seemed a step nearer yesterday with the arrival in Santa Ana of Thomas Means, G. A. Elliott and B. E. Etcheverry, engineers, who prepared the county flood control report, which was submitted to the supervisors last April.

Immediately upon their arrival the party, accompanied by Murray N. Thompson, Orange county flood control engineer, went into the field for a checkup and inspection of the proposed Trabuco dam and reservoir site. They returned late last night and are in the field again today.

While attaches of the flood control office were unable to state the exact purpose of this visit it is assumed that it is for the purpose of a preliminary checkup on plans and specifications for the proposed dam and to certifystudies made of the storage possibilities of the Trabuco site as recently proposed for inclusion in the flood control and conservation program.

The engineers are expected to return tonight for a final conference with Thompson before returning to San Francisco to prepare a final report on the project.

Surgeons assured Briggs that his wife would make a speedy recovery and soon be able to return to her home.

MAY POSTPONE MEET PLANNED ON DISARMING

GENEVA, July 30.—(UP)—Postponement of the World Arms Limitation conference scheduled for next February was considered in League of Nations quarters today.

Doubt was expressed that the conference would be a success early in 1932.

The German financial crisis and the danger that the rest of Europe may be involved in a serious economic struggle were regarded as possible obstacles to the success of an arms conference six months from now. The powers, it was pointed out, would be busy with other problems.

Economic and political tranquility, it was emphasized, are essential to the success of an armaments conference, and it was feared that the early part of next year will not be a favorable moment for the League's army parley.

The date of the conference was set when the European atmosphere was much less disturbed, League officials pointed out. In the meantime, an atmosphere of political tension has arisen.

While League authorities agreed with President Hoover's theory that a radical reduction of armaments would be an important moral step toward economic recovery, it was insisted that nothing in Europe's present tendencies would indicate that the nations were ready for such a vital move.

No concrete proposal for postponement of the February conference has been forthcoming yet, but the September session of the League assembly was expected to decide the question.

DEATHS

A WORD OF COMFORT

It is by deeds and not by words that you are to master the temptation to repine.

Live one day at a time as if you were to greet your dear one at its close. Your anguish will be transformed into power for self-mastery and into an eager looking forward to the joys which are to be.

No one who has expected from God strength for the day and trusted in Him has ever been deceived or disappointed.

The way is hard and lonely but you will be given strength sufficient for your needs.

Just around the next turn in the road your dear one waits for you.

FARM BUREAU GROUP REPORTS TAX FINDINGS

Following completion of a study that required more than a year, the tax committee of the Orange County Farm Bureau has prepared a report and suggested certain tax policies for the organization to adopt.

This policy has been adopted by the directors of the organization and a copy ordered sent to the board of supervisors. An outline of the policy, looking to a future cut in road taxes, was presented to the board this week.

The policy outlined by the committee composed of the following members, Leroy Lyons, Felton Browning, Ross Shafer and J. A. Smiley, first goes into a study of the basis of assessing road costs. According to the report the value of the use of roads and the appreciation of value of adjoining property represents the factors which should determine the extent to which the gasoline tax (which it is said is recognized throughout California and the nation as the fairest and most equitable means of taxing use) and the direct property tax (the justification for which lies in increased property values) should each pay toward the total cost of road, highway and bridge construction and upkeep.

Other points were stressed in the letter to the supervisors as follows:

"Through county roads passing through incorporated cities in Orange county should receive the same financial and other assistance from the gasoline or other general road funds of Orange county, within such incorporated city limits, as would be given to such road in construction outside of incorporated city limits.

"The county is well supplied with a system of improved roads, which are keeping well abreast with the progress and development of Orange county; and the committee recognizes that the development of roads has been an important factor in the development of this county.

"While present funds, to a considerable extent, have been pledged and projects planned which do not allow a drastic cut at the present time, it appears from the figures at hand that because of the rapid development which has been maintained in the past that the time is not far distant when road expenditures may be reduced.

"In the past 11 years the unincorporated area of Orange county has paid $8,952,093.75 (71½ per cent) in direct property tax, of the money used in the development and maintenance of the county road system. It has also paid a considerable proportion of the gas tax and auto license fees, the total gas tax received by the county being $2,239,573.05 (17 per cent) for the period under consideration. In view of these facts it is evident that a major portion of the tax burden on rural property should be shifted from a direct tax on property to a tax pased on the use of roads."

TAXPAYERS COMPLAIN THEY CAN'T FIND COUNTY ADS IN SMALL CIRCULATION PAPERS

The question of legal advertising for Orange county is an interesting one to the taxpayers and to all citizens who desire to keep informed upon the legal doings of their representatives. The correspondence which follows is self-explanatory:

"San Clemente, Calif.
"July 22, 1931.

My dear Mr. Burke: Your good paper, The Santa Ana Register, has each year in the past carried a printed list of delinquent taxes. It has been our custom to check this list for description of properties in which we were interested and to advise our clients of any such delinquencies.

"Up to the present writing, this notice for the current year has not appeared in your paper. May we ask that you advise us if you have discontinued this service to the public, and, if so, what newspaper in Orange county, if any, publishes this notice.

"Yours very truly,
"HUGO CARLSON,
"General Manager.

The publisher wrote Carlson advising him that the matter had been published in another paper in the county and giving information as to where a copy could be obtained. He also pointed out that The Register had considerably more circulation than the paper in which it was published and said that The Register had offered to publish this matter at rates much below those which had been charged.

It is generally believed that the purpose of publishing legal advertising in the paper is to inform the people of the particular governmental unit represented by the legal advertisement of the facts to which the ad applies.

In fact, in a recent decision in Idaho, the supreme court declared that the circulation of a newspaper, even rather than the price it charges for publishing the county's legal printing, is the proper basis for awarding the contract for publishing.

But here in this county, not only is the smaller paper used, but actually at nearly double the rate for which the larger one offered to do the work. The supreme court in this Idaho case held that it was the intent of the legislature in authorizing newspaper publication of county printing to reach the greatest number of taxpayers and that "the mere fact that the News offered to do the printing for less money cannot be considered."

TELLS HISTORY OF COUNTY TO KIWANIS CLUB

Terry E. Stephenson, Santa Ana postmaster, and author, was the principal speaker yesterday at the noon meeting of Santa Ana Kiwanis Club in Ketner's Cafe. City Councilman Paul Witmer was program chairman for the day and announced that Stephenson would talk on the history of Orange county.

In his address Stephenson traced the development of this county from the earliest, or Indian days, through the picturesque mission period, the more robust rancho period, the boom days with following depression and into the later days of prosperity that have not been ended.

In the Indian days Stephenson said the Santa Ana valley was populated by the most inferior tribes of Indians in the nation. This was true of the entire Pacific coast. The Indians in this area lived in little villages along the coast because food was easier to secure there. The first trace of the white man was marked when Cabrillo passed through the county. Forgotten for 165 years, the DePortola expedition to establish headquarters for the Spanish government at Monterey, again brought the white man to this district. The expedition passed through Orange county and left names such as Trabuco, Santiago and Santa Ana which have been passed down through the ages.

In the mission period of the state there were approximately 600 white people in the entire area now known as California. There were more than 7000 Indians who, because of their lack of tribal instinct and the inferiority of their type were held in check by 300 white soldiers. Twenty years later, or in 1800, the white population had doubled and 20 years later the white population had increased to 3200 people. During that period the mission was the center of all life.

Pioneers Settle

There were but few Spanish grants extended during the mission period, one of them being given Jose Antonio Yorba who came to Orange county as a member of the Portola expedition. He settled 120 years ago on the Santa Ana river and was this district's first farmer. His vineyards were planted from Santiago Creek to what is now the community of Olive. Jose Sepulveda was another of the pioneer ranchers who settled in this county during the rancho period, under a Spanish grant.

Stephenson traced the history of the county through the breaking up of the great ranchos and through the years of the great drouth which threw the owners into debt and was a period of great privation and hardship.

The communities of Orange, Tustin and Santa Ana were the first to be formed in Orange county and Robert McFadden was given credit for bringing in the first artesian wells, one of the greatest boons to the county. During the boom period, land sales leaped to an unheard of high point and the towns of Fullerton, Buena Park and El Modena and a score of others were started. The others died with the boom leaving the three named to stand through the years.

Stephenson paid a high tribute to William Spurgeon and James McFadden as two of the men who sacrificed everything to bring water to this district and who, through their political efforts, were responsible for the severance of Orange county from Los Angeles.

Painful Piles

Go Quick—No Cutting—No Salves

It takes only one bottle of Dr. J. S. Leonhardt's prescription—HEM-ROID—to end itching, bleeding, protruding piles. This internal remedy acts quickly even in old, stubborn cases. HEM-ROID succeeds because it heals and restores the affected parts and removes blood congestion in the lower bowel—the cause of piles. Only an internal medicine can do this; that's why salves and cutting fail. McCoy Drug Company says HEM-ROID Tablets must end your pile misery or money back.

DRIVER HURT AS BLOW OUT CAUSES CRASH

W. D. Maruny, 30, truck driver or 3342 Sixth street, Sacramento, was seriously injured at 6 a. m. today when a tire on the truck he was driving blew out, causing the machine to run off the road and crash into a telephone pole. The accident occurred just north of the Orange County hospital on the state highway between Santa Ana and Anaheim.

Maruny was taken to the Santa Ana Valley hospital where it was said this afternoon that it was not believed his injuries would prove fatal.

The impact of the truck against the telephone pole broke the pole off at the base. State traffic officers, who made an investigation, reported that the truck was traveling too fast at the time of the accident.

Mrs. Mary Aldean and Glenwood Aldean, 17, Santa Ana, were reported cut and bruised when the car in which they were riding collided with a machine driven by Rex Parks, Santa Ana, at South Broadway and Highland street at 6:20 p. m. yesterday. They were taken to a local physician's office and then taken to their homes.

EVANGELISTIC CAMPAIGN TO BE HELD OVER

"The universe is not ruled by love but by justice and sinners are all sentenced to everlasting death under God's law," asserted Evangelist John Brown last night in delivering his message on "Atonement." "There is only one way to be pardoned from your death sentence and that is to accept the substitution of Jesus Christ who died in atonement of your sins," he declared.

Enthusiastic applause greeted the statement made by the revivalist that the campaign would not close in three weeks as previously scheduled, but would continue next week. Following the special song selection given by the Arkansas Travelers, Elden Farrar, song leader sang "He Died of a Broken Heart." The campaign in Orange will not open until some time in September, it was announced.

Brown took his text for last night's message from the book of Hebrews, 14:11. The fact of God, the law of God, the fact that the laws of God have a hell side and a heaven side, and the fact that every one must answer to the laws of God, were the four points which the preacher emphasized in his sermon.

Justice Controls

"Sin is the violation of the holy laws," said Brown. "A sinner is a rebel in the universe of God and as a rebel is sentenced to die. How can you be pardoned from the sentence of death?" Taking Absalom as an example Brown asked if there was a way for us to come back from the banishment of God. "Some think that God can and will pardon us just as king David did Absalom. But He can't, for He would dethrone Himself. People say that God as the Father of love will pardon us from the death sentence. We are all controlled by sentiment. What is the controlling force of the world? Not love, but justice. This idea that love reigns and love rules and everything will wind up right at the end no matter what we may do is a lot of mush. What drove King David from his throne but love?

"This present state of lawlessness in America, which stenches the nostrils of the whole world, is the result of all the teaching of mush and gush and love, love, love, until no one fears God in the least. When you take away fear you are letting down the bars.

"Is there any possible way out from your sins? Love can't save you. There is only one way out and that is by substitution. Someone will have to suffer for your sins. And that someone is Jesus Christ who volunteered to die on the cross in the atonement of our sins. I can't understand why people don't acknowledge the fact that Jesus Christ died on Calvary for us. Christ suffered on the cross to atone for our sins. How many of us accept Jesus Christ as our substitute?

"Love can't save you unless you yield yourself to it," appealed Brown. "You are lost until you find Christ. Are you resting in His light?" Numbers of the congregation followed Brown into the inquiry room for a short prayer service.

Tonight will be everybody's night announced the evangelist while tomorrow night the W. C. T. U. will have a special reserved section in the tabernacle, he said. Special Monday night services will be held next week featuring a program given by the Arkansas Travelers.

COURT DENIES INJUNCTION IN BRIDGE CASE

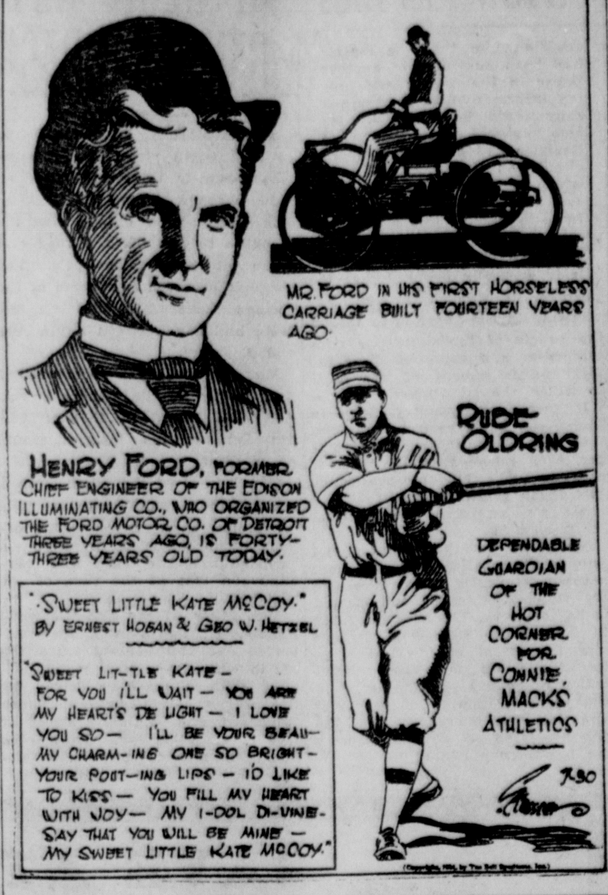

Settlement of the dispute that has existed between members of the Newbert Protection district, Talbert Drainage district, and ranchers on one side, and the city of Santa Ana on the other, has been ended by the decision of Judge George H. Freeman, of Riverside, sitting here temporarily, which denied an application for a court order enjoining maintenance of the bridge across the river on Santa Ana boulevard, which it characterized as a flood menace.

Members of the districts and a group of ranchers living near the bridge sought to enjoin the city from maintenance of the present structure and force its replacement. This, according to Charles D. Swanner, who represented the city in the action, would have cost approximately $75,000.

The action was filed in connection with construction of the bridge more than a year ago.

MAD PLAY, EX-TURF ACE, SOLD FOR $135

CHICAGO, July 30.—(UP)—Mad Play, winner of the Belmont Stakes in 1924 and other prominent races, has been sold for $125.

The 10-year-old horse whose winnings total $194,535 was auctioned off yesterday by Hal Price Headley of Kentucky and was brought by M. H. Karnes of Chicago. Mad Play, who ran in the colors of Harry F. Sinclair's Rancocas stable when in his prime, failed as a sire and hasn't been able to win claiming races the last few years.

SCIENTISTS SEEK REASONS FOR HEAT WAVE WHICH HAS GRIPPED SOUTHLAND 40 DAYS

While Southern California and the entire nation has been sweltering in the grip of a heat wave that kept the mercury hovering between 95 and 118 degrees for more than 40 days, oceanographers and meteorologists are attempting to find out what is causing this "unusual" weather.

Some scientists have advanced the theory that California is "going tropical" and to prove their theory point to the record book of the United States weather bureau in Los Angeles. Col. H. B. Hersey, government meteorologist in Los Angeles, has advanced an opinion that the Japanese current, a warm stream of ocean water, has moved closer to the coast.

To support this theory Hersey declares that a giant devilfish was caught recently off the coast. This species of marine life has, heretofore, been unknown in these parts. The presence of other tropical marine life strange in Pacific waters, is lending credence to the theory that California is "going tropical". In line with this reasoning was the recent capture at Newport Beach of a hammerhead shark.

Prof. G. F. McEwen, physical oceanographer at the Scripps Institute of Oceanography at La Jolla, who has studied ocean currents for the past 15 years, has absolved the Japanese current from all blame in connection with the present heat wave however. He says the California current, another warm current, has become warmer and to this he attributes the heat wave. Professor McEwen said that statistics show that waters of the Pacific coast are 10 degrees warmer this year than they were 15 years ago when water temperature reached a mark of 69 degrees at La Jolla and blames a shattering of the Pacific high pressure area, unusual in this latitude.

The Japanese current was exonerated entirely from blame for the hot weather by Professor McEwen when he said that the Japanese current has remained in its unmarked confines hundreds of miles off the Pacific coast.

Temperatures Higher

According to the records of the Newport Bay fire department where records are kept for the United States weather bureau and the Scripps Institute, this has been the hottest summer ever known in the harbor district. Water and atmospheric temperature records have been kept at Newport Beach and Balboa for the past 23 years.

The hottest day at the beach this year was June 25 when the thermometer showed the mercury had climbed to 87 degrees. Late June and July temperatures at the beach this year have ranged from 6 to 10 degrees higher than the average for last year.

Water temperature was highest at Newport and Balboa on July 22 when it registered a maximum of 76.8 degrees. On June 25, the hottest day of the year, the water temperature was 75.1. Tuesday, at Newport, the water registered 73.2 degrees and the atmosphere temperature was 82 at the maximum or two degrees lower than on the preceding day.

In case there is anyone who has not suffered enough for the present heated spell and would like to take on a little additional discomfort through studying a few temperature records, here is something to ponder over:

Constant Rise

According to figures compiled from United States department of agriculture weather bureau reports kept by E. E. Campbell of Orange, meteorological record observer for Santa Ana and Orange county, this summer will shatter all previous hot weather records. The average maximum temperature for July during the last 10 years is 84 degrees, while this month's temperature has averaged over 86 degrees, not including the last few days of the month, which have all ranged over ninety degrees.

The lowest maximum average for July which was recorded was during the year 1926 when the thermimum of 68 degrees for one particular day, while the average for the month was 82. Since that year the average for the month has traveled steadily upward.

According to the records on file at Hill and Son hardware store, the highest temperature reached in Santa Ana was on October 31, 1930, when the mercury climbed to 107, while this year's high mark was reached on July 26 when the chart read 104. At no time previous to 1930 has the heat climbed over the 100 mark and only once had it reached that high.

All of which lends credence to the belief that California is "going tropical."

Let's go swimming!

Wright Reports Water Shortage

W. H. Wright, deputy agricultural commissioner and his wife, who have been on a vacation for the past two weeks, returned to Santa Ana yesterday after a trip to Denver, Colorado, where they visited Wright's brother. They motored to Colorado and back, visiting many points of interest on the way.

The thing that was particularly striking was the lack of water in nearly all the states visited, according to Wright, who declared that many states are facing a serious water shortage at the present time. In many cases it was necessary to carry water for the car and it was necessary to purchase gasoline before water could be obtained from many service stations.

Rice Waived Out Of Major Leagues

WASHINGTON, July 30.—(INS)—Harry Rice, outfielder, who performed with the St. Louis Browns, Detroit Tigers and New York Yankees and up until yesterday with the Washington Senators, stepped out of the big leagues today when sold to the Baltimore Orioles.

Rice, who was obtained by the Nats from the New York club last winter for $7500, the waiver price, will report to the Orioles in Newark immediately.

POLAR BEARS NEED ~ NO REFRIGERATOR

They live on raw food and it is always fresh. Snow and icebergs surround them continuously.

North of the Arctic circle artificial refrigeration is unknown, but here in Southern California every family requires this modern method for keeping food cool and fresh.

Those who think most about it decide upon Electrolux, the gas refrigerator, because of its absolute silence, its economy of operation--about three to four cents per day--and its everlasting dependability.

We sell the modern refrigerator on terms conveniently adaptable to the average family budget. Inspect the new models just arrived.

POLAR BEAR

(Thalarctos maritimus)

Is distinguished from all other bears by its long neck, slender pointed head, and the quantity of fur on the soles of its feet. A great majority live permanently on the ice, often hundreds of miles from the nearest land.

TUNISON WILL MAKE PLANES AT OLD RINK

FULLERTON, July 30.—Construction of an airplane factory between Fullerton and Buena Park was under way today with the old skating rink being made over for the purpose, by M. C. Tunison, Fullerton aeronautical engineer and designer, who plans production of the Tunison Scout plane in the new plant.

The new company, to be known as the Pacific Airways Manufacturing company, will operate in connection with the Fullerton airport, plans being made to use it for testing purposes as new ships are constructed.

The new factory offers 6,000 square feet of floor space and will be adapted to use for manufacturing until such time as a new building may be constructed. It is planned to eventually use the present factory building for construction of instruments.

Orders for several planes are already secured and construction work will be started as soon as possible. Planes will be of plywood construction and similar to the one built in Fullerton several years ago by Tunison on his own design.

Equipment is expected to be installed soon to permit construction of planes at the rate of one per week if demand is sufficient.

H. B. Men Attend San Diego Trial

HUNTINGTON BEACH, July 30.—Councilman C. H. King, Councilman J. Ed Huston and T. B. Talbert have returned from San Diego where they have been attending the suit of the city against the Huntington Beach company for title to the beach in front of the city limits of Huntington Beach. The case is running into its second week and probably will not be completed this week.

The city, it was stated by Talbert, has presented a strong case. Witnesses have testified to the land company selling lots under promise of free public use of the beach for all time and some of the witnesses were former officers and employes of the Huntington Beach company.

LAGUNA GIVES 'SKIDDING' ON TWO EVENINGS

LAGUNA BEACH, July 30.—That the old community spirit that was manifested in "Robin Hood" and other productions by amateur entertainers in making them a success is a factor in "Skidding," the comedy drama of family life which is being produced by Jessie Way Hardie at the Community Playhouse on Friday and Saturday evenings, July 31 and August 1, was declared today.

Properties have been offered and aid has come from unexpected sources to Mrs. Hardie in planning the play. Volunteers have aided in many ways in assisting in getting the production under way. So great has been the interest in the summer play that the audiences at rehearsals have broken all records. Those who have seen the work of those who are to appear have praised it highly and have intrigued the interest of summer visitors and residents.

One of the favorites is John Marriner, dubbed "What A Man" in the advertising posters made by members of the cast. He is cast as Stubbins, a politician, and is well qualified to handle the part. Arthur Whipple, one of the most versatile and reliable of those who appear in dramatics here, is cast as Grandpa Hardy; this is a part new to Mr. Whipple, who has never before tried to take the part of an aged person.

Stella Harris, one of the favorite players here is one of the daughters, as is Mary McKinley, who is new to the Laguna stage. Ella June LaPiere, experienced amateur, considered by many to rate as a professional, has a spinster role, appearing as Aunt Mary.

Plans are being made to repeat "East Lynne" as the August play, to be given near the end of the month. This was given as one of the most successful shows ever produced at the Community playhouse and many requests have been made that it be given with the same cast. George Dunham will direct it.

ROCKET AIRPORT

BERLIN.—Just like regulation aircraft has airports, so do the new rocket planes being tried out in Germany. One such port has been erected outside this city. It is two and a half miles square and is equipped for experimental rocket flights. Laboratories and shops for working out and constructing the rocket craft are all on the grounds.

MANY ACTIVITIES KEEP HEALTH CAMP CHILDREN BUSY; PLAN BOAT RIDES

Children at the Orange County Health Camp, during the hot weather that has been prevalent for the past week, have been bathing in the creek near the camp but have not allowed the heat to affect their regular routine of health activities, as is evidenced in this week's article on camp activities written for The Register by Robert Gale. Following is the letter received today:

"Dear Friends:

"We are glad to see that it is rather cloudy today. Perhaps now it won't be so warm—or should we say hot!

"Saturday afternoon, when it was so warm, we all went down to the creek to cool off. When we came out of the creek, we brought up some rocks. Can you guess what they were for?

"Oh, no, it wasn't the golf course. We took the rocks and built a little fire-place outside, away from the trees and buildings. Then we brought wood and paper for the fire and we were ready to go. Now, you are beginning to wonder what it is all about. Next, we put a bench on the grass. When we had finished this, the cooks brought out the supper and put it on our nourishment table. There was potato salad, slice tomato, beans and milk and buns—a regular picnic supper.

"Officers of the Boosters club took their supper up to the fire and used the bench for a table. Those who are not Booster club officers ate at the nourishment table and then the boys' supervisor built them a fire and they—but wait—what about the club?

"Well, after we were through eating, and everyone had a clean plate, President Philip Baker called the meeting to order. There was no old business, so we took up the new. What we mean is that the dues, 10 cents per member, were collected.

"The dues are to pay for our next meeting. We plan to take boat rides over at the park on the lake.

"After the dues were taken up, the program committee went into action. They put on a Health Play:

"Philip and Russell were pirates and came sneaking in on the scene. Then came the good ones, Sheldon and Eldon. They wanted the map to health land and they had to fight the pirates for it, but they got it. The key to Health Land was the eight health rules.

"After the play, a new committee was chosen. The four larger girls were chosen: Jeslyn Peterson, Helen Ross, Doris Schlicht, and Geraldine Walthall.

"Then came the fire—and roasted marshmallows. After we were through with the fire, we put it out and sang "Taps". Just then the whistle blew. That meant, to bed.

"Sunday afternoon, Doctor Bessica Raiche conducted the parent conference. Doctor Raiche is a member of the board of directors of the association, having watched this work grow from the very beginning. We were very much interested to hear her tell of the development in which she has had such an active part. When we boys and girls who are enjoying the benefits of the Health Camp now, grow up, we certainly will do all we can to keep up the ideals of the people who started this wonderful work in Orange county.

"Miss Maud Moore, Y. W. C. A. worker, came out Monday morning and gave us some new exercises and tumbling stunts to do. We have to know 25. All those who know the required number will be awarded a badge. It is a felt circle with the letter 'T' on it. The 'T' stands for 'tumbling'. Geraldine, Jeslyn, Helen and Bonnie May already have theirs. Before we can pass on any exercise, we have to do it good enough to satisfy Miss Moore and she certainly knows.

"There are three things we must be able to do before we can get the badge. We have our choice of the other 22. We have been given 33. We must be able to do what we call the 'human wicket'. This means to be able to bend over and hold your palms flat against the floor, without bending your knees, and walk that way for a few steps. Can you do it? You can if you practice. Try it some day.

"The other required "stunt" is to have correct posture. Head up, shoulders back, stomach in, chest out, feet pointing straight forward. When your posture is correct, your ears, shoulders, hips and heels will make almost a straight line. Watch out that you don't stiffen out. Then you look like a wooden soldier. Again, can you do it? Look in the looking glass when you try this. And then we must be good sports while we do the stunts. It is better to be a good sport all the time.

"Our medical director has given permission for us to join the Alumni Health Camp picnic at Huntington Beach. Our good friend, W. J. Bristol, called on us recently on his way to a family picnic at Irvine park. He certainly had planned a wonderful program for the Alumni picnic.

"We think there will be many interesting things to tell next week, but it is time for rest period now, and we couldn't miss that so we will have to say 'goodbye' for now.

LIKE MEAT—YET ISN'T

BOSTON.—A Boston scientist has developed a meat condiment, which, when spread over other meatless dishes in the form of powder, imparts the flavor of red meat. The condiment is prepared by boiling gluten from wheat flour with strong hydrochloric acid, then neutralizing with soda and allowing the resulting salt to crystallize. This is then pulverized.

NOT SO HOT

WASHINGTON.—The "red hot mammas" aren't so hot, Dr. Francis G. Benedict, director of the nutrition laboratory of the Carnegie institution here, finds in testing their basal metabolism. Dr. Benedict found that the average woman gives off 10 per cent less heat than a man of the same size.

Good Afternoon, Santa Ana!

We are proud to be a component part of this exceptional business and residential community.

Only the other day a man prominent in business circles "back east," after visiting practically all of the cities of Southern California, unhesitatingly voiced his conviction that Santa Ana (together with its neighboring cities, set as gems in the heart of the finest and most beautiful citrus area in the world), made a stronger appeal to him than any other place he had ever seen.

We heartily concur in such sentiment.

We are a part of Santa Ana and we want to meet and know our neighbors.

Our manager, B. C. Bruce, is now moving his household belongings to Santa Ana, where he will make his home and educate his children. Other interests in the business are represented by a home owner, taxpayer and voter of Orange County. So we are part and parcel of this community. Our home interests, our business interests, our school interests and our social interests are practically wholly centered in Santa Ana and environs.

Santa Ana has an enviable reputation as a substantial and successful business community. We trust that we may be privileged to have a part in sustaining and possibly in enhancing the community's good name as a trading center.

Stop in and see us. We shall be glad to meet you at any time....and to serve you if such may be your pleasure.

We have been told that our store room is one of the finest equipped business houses in Southern California. We would be pleased to have your opinion regarding it.

ACID GASOLINE EXACTS A COSTLY TOLL

WHICH YOU NEED PAY NO LONGER

...Lost Mileage-Declining Motor Performance Unnecessary Repair and Upkeep Cost, Etc., Etc.

Because the damage caused to your motor by acid gasoline is not visible at the time... it is none the less real, serious and costly. Acid in gasoline is not a new discovery... it is as old as gasoline itself. Its elimination from the crude oil has always been the big, perplexing problem of the refiner.

You may say "acid gasoline has never hurt my motor", and you may be sincere in thinking so. The fact is, however, you've paid the bills for damage caused by acid gasoline, as has every other motorist, for acid in gasoline is constantly exacting its hidden, costly toll.

Unfortunately, you have perhaps not known that acid in gasoline is largely responsible for declining motor performance, increasing cost of operation, and unnecessary repair and upkeep costs.

Slowly but surely acid in gasoline eats away at the unseen working parts of your motor. It corrodes the needle valve and float in the carburetor; it attacks bearings and eats into the crankcase. The result is excess gasoline consumption, reduced mileage, gradually impaired motor performance, and many upkeep and repair bills that might otherwise have been avoided.

No longer need you pay this toll of Acid Gasoline. The Violet Ray Process of Refining, protected by 7 U. S. Patents, (numbered 1625195, 1639988, 1652399, 1728136, 1769475, 1769476, 1792003, eliminates all Naphthenic and Sulphur-Bearing Acids from...

VIOLET RAY ACID-FREE GASOLINE

Your visible proof that there is and can be no acid in Violet Ray is supplied in the violet color of Violet Ray Gasoline. The slightest presence of acid would immediately destroy its violet color and turn the gasoline to white or straw color.

Why take chances on putting acid gasoline into your motor when you can have this infallible guarantee of Science that Violet Ray is free from acid? There is no other practical, visible test available to you. Any other gasoline (white or colored) may contain acids without your knowing it. Violet Ray cannot.

COSTS NO MORE THAN WHITE GASOLINE

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resent a substitute. ©1931, Carter Medicine Company.

ORANGE LIONS GIVEN REPORTS ON CONVENTION

ORANGE, July 30.—Ivan Swanger, president of the Lions club, was welcomed on his return from the Lions International convention at Toronto, Can., at the regular meeting of the Lions club yesterday noon at the American Legion clubhouse.

Swanger spoke briefly of the convention and will give a full report of the meet at the next session of the local organization. W. P. Johnson, of San Pedro, who was a delegate to the convention, was asked to give high lights of the convention and in complying with this request, he gave some interesting statistics which were revealed at the convention.

The number of Lions clubs in the United States was increased by 333 new organizations, during the past year, Johnson stated, a quota of one new club a day having been set for all service clubs of the nation. Lions clubs came the nearest of meeting this quota than any other club, the visitor declared. Activities taken up by Lions of the nation during the past year numbered 16,650, Johnson said.

Paul Muench was the chairman of the day and introduced Mrs. Christine Lambert, of this city, her sister, Miss Charlotte Eck, of Dayton, O., and her house guest, Miss Alma Pottschmidt, also of Ohio. The trio of attractive young women, presented a program of songs, instrumental solos, dances and tumbling acts. Miss Eck and Miss Pottschmidt are both heads of physical education departments in Ohio city schools and colorful costumes were used in staging the program. The group gave a similar program at a recent meeting of the 20-30 club here and a number which had been especially well liked by members of that club was repeated at yesterday's meeting. This number was a parody on "Would You Like to Take a Walk?" and was called "Would You Like to Take a Ride?" and the two visitors to the city, Miss Eck and Miss Pottschmidt, were dressed to represent Chicago gangsters.

An announcement was made that the county Lions council would meet in Orange at the American Legion hall August 17.

SMART-DUMB RATS

WASHINGTON—That there are smart rats and rats not so intelligent is being proven by Robert Choate Tyron, national research council fellow. Tyron has divided rats into two divisions, the smart and dumb, and has mated only those belonging to their own group. He reports that the intelligent rats are growing more intelligent and offsprings of dumb rats are getting dumber.

FAVORITES TO BE INCLUDED ON BROADCAST

KREG's new schedule, which keeps the station on the air from 9:30 a. m. until 11 p. m. with the exception of an hour from 1:30 to 2:30 p. m., started yesterday and from the large number of calls received, the new schedule is being received enthusiastically throughout the county.

New talent, new entertainment and better service mark the station's increased schedule, but at the same time all the old favorites are to be heard too, and many of these are on today's program.

The Seiberling Singers, formerly known as The Revelers will be heard on the Seiberling Tire program scheduled for 7:30 to 7:45 p. m. today. This is an electrical transcription. The program is sponsored by the Orange county Seiberling tire dealers.

Johnny Maxwell, one of KREG's most popular entertainers, known as the boy tenor with a tear in his voice, will also be heard tonight. His program starts at 9:30 continuing until 10 p. m.

The 4 H Club will have its regular program from 7 until 7:15 p. m. tonight, the usual time for this program and from 8:30 to 9:30 The Melodians will be on the air.

MRS. HADDON TELLS ABOUT BRIDGE GAME

A resume of the playing of last night's bridge hand from KREG is given below. The game is broadcast from the studio each Wednesday evening by Mrs. W. H. Haddon, expert.

Announcement was made by Mrs. Haddon last night that the hand would be played in the studio next Wednesday evening by Mr. and Mrs. B. J. MacMullen of North Broadway and Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Dunning of East Fourth street.

Auction Bridge

East bids 1 N. T. (While he has a singleton, we do not pay so much attention to that fact in auction) He has 2½ quick tricks, three good suits and must bid a minor if he does not bid no trump. So he selects one no trump. South passes (she would not bid under the guns against a no trump, and her majors are not very sound for an informative double.) West passes (the only strength take out in auction is when one holds as good as an original bid in a major suit; the weakness take out is a suit of six or more with no re-entries; having neither of these requirements, West passes). North passes her only object in bidding against a no trump would be for a lead directing bid and she has no suit that warrants that). East plays the hand at one no trump.

1. South leads Q clubs, W K; N 8; E 2. 2. West leads 2 spades; N 5; E J; S K. 3. South leads J clubs; W 7; N 6 hearts; E ace clubs. 4. East leads ace spades; S 3; W 4; N 6; 5. East leads 7 spades; S 7 diamonds; W Q spades; N 9. 6. West leads 10 spades; N 2 diamonds; E 8 hearts; S 3 clubs. 7. West leads 8 spades; N 3 diamonds; E 9 hearts; S 7 hearts. 8. West leads 2 hearts; N ace; E 10; S J. 9. North leads 4 diamonds; E Q; S K; W 6. 10. South leads 10 clubs; W 3 hearts; N 5 diamonds; E 4 clubs. 11. South leads 9 clubs; W 8 hearts; N 8 diamonds; E 5 clubs. 12. South leads ace diamonds W Q hearts N 10 diamonds; E 6 clubs; 13. South leads 9 diamonds; W J diamonds; N 4 hearts; E K hearts.

Contract Bridge

East bids 1 club, in contract, to bid N. T. with a singleton would be wrong and besides an original N. T. bid denies a suit bid and there is a sound club bid with 2½ Q. T. and a 5 card suit with 1 Q. T. South bids 1 diamond, this is a sound bid with 3 Q. T. in the hand some might prefer the informative double but I feel the majors are weak, especially hearts. West passes, had South passed he would have bid one spade to keep the bidding open, this is always advisable when holding 1½ Q. T. but as the bidding is now open he feels with his hand it would be unwise to mention his spades. North bids 3 diamonds, his hand is worthless at anything but diamonds. East doubes, a bid of 3 doubled, when partner has not bid, may be answered either way by partner but the weaker his hand the more reason to bid and unless he feels they can set the contract he must mention another suit. South bids 5 diamonds, he has a legitimate 4 but hopes to shut out a major game by bidding 5 even though he go set. West passes. North passes. E doubles on his suit 3 more passes and South plays the hand at 5 diamonds, doubled.

1. West leads K clubs North 8; East 2; South 3. 2. West leads 7 clubs; N 2 diamonds; E 4 clubs; S 9. 3. North leads 3 diamonds; E Q; S K; W 6. 4. South leads ace diamonds; W J; N 4; E 9 hearts. 5. South leads 10 clubs; W 8 spades; North 5 diamonds; E 5 clubs. 6. North leads 5 spades; E ace; S 3; W 2. 7. East leads J spades; S K; W 4; N 6; 8. South leads J clubs; W 2 hearts; N 8 diamonds; E 6 clubs. 9. North leads 9 spades; E 7; S 7 diamonds; W 10 spades. 10. South leads Q clubs; W 3 hearts; N 10 diamonds; E ace clubs. 11. North leads ace hearts; E 5; S 7; W 8. 12. North leads 4 hearts; E K; S J; W Q. 13. East leads 10 hearts; S 9 diamonds; W Q spades; N 6 hearts.

East and West took 3 tricks, setting the contract 1 trick doubled, as North and South were not vulnerable, East and West score 100 in their honor column.

Fans Appreciate Increased Service

That the increased service from KREG to radio fans of this section of the state is meeting with approval is evidenced by the fact that during the first of the afternoon schedules which went on the air yesterday, there was a fine response from those who were taking advantage of the added entertainment being offered.

Studio phones were busy as messages of congratulation on the extra service and requests for special numbers on the various popular programs came in, it was announced today by station officials.

Gifts Offered On Women's Hour Program

Gifts to those who tune in on KREG'S "Women's Hour" from 10 a. m. until 10:30 a. m. tomorrow, are offered by Santa Ana merchants sponsoring the program.

One merchant is offering free bolsa wood for the making of airplanes to anyone who calls the station during the program and another is offering credit checks for $1. Details on how to procure these gifts will be explained by Marjorie, who conducts the "Women's Hour."

Melody Boys To Entertain Fans

The Children's Hour over KREG tomorrow will feature the "Melody Boys," a group of singers, readers, and string instrument entertainers. The program starts at 11:30 a. m. continuing for a half hour.

Those who make up the group are Glen Layton, steel guitar; Harold Mathews, Paul Francis, singers; Thomas Carl Sutton, violin and tap dancing; Perry Cook, readings; David Hunter, piano; Wesley Fisher, readings; Stanley Sebastian, songs; Warren Paul, readings; Tommy Croddy, songs; Bernard Fields, piano.

BOOK REVIEW

"Ella" the new book by Elisabeth Wilkins Thomas, will be reviewed by Mary Burke King, during the "Book Review" hour over station KREG from 10:30 until 11 a. m. Friday.

BUZZARD STARTS FIRES

SANTA ROSA.—A huge turkey buzzard hit a high voltage wire and crashed to the ground, shriveled to a crisp. The wires struck a fence and started five field fires at once.

OFFER 'MIKADO' ON PROSPERITY HOUR FRIDAY

A condensed version of the Gilbert and Sullivan opera, "The Mikado" will be presented over station KREG from 7:30 p. m. until 8 p. m. tomorrow under the direction of Lorene Croddy.

Six voices will be heard and the program is being sponsored by a group of Santa Ana merchants, it being the closing one of a series of 12 prosperity programs which have been broadcast by the merchants.

The singers, who are: Ruth Crowl, Elfreda Irwin, Ed Rogers, Lorene Croddy, Duncan Harnois and Alta Fisher, have been preparing "The Mikado" for the past six months, studio officials report, and their offering on this program is expected to attract many listeners.

In connection with the program there will be a short talk on prosperity.

RADIO FEATURES

Listeners to the Stadium Concerts series, portions of which are being broadcast by the Columbia network, will hear the orchestra of the New York Philharmonic-Symphony society under a new baton this evening, when Fritz Reiner takes the conductor's stand. The concert will be broadcast from 6 to 6:30.

Succeeding Willem van Hoogstraten for a spell of two weeks, before Albert Coates arrives, Reiner will lead this famous orchestra in a number of works seldom heard at these concerts, and his preference for Richard Strauss is indicated by his choice of the tone poem "Till Eulenspiegel's Merry Pranks" for this program, to be followed in other concerts by several of this composer's works.

KREG BRINGS NEW MUSICAL ORGANIZATION TO FANS

"Billy and Her Boy Friends," a musical organization well known in Los Angeles where for the past seven months it has entertained at one of the city's most popular night clubs and which has broadcast over a number of Los Angeles radio stations, will be on the Owl's hour, of KREG's program tomorrow.

The Owl's hour starts at 10:30 p. m. continuing until 11 p. m.

Popular music, together with "wisecracks" and good singing will mark this program. "Billy and Her Boy Friends" are expected to close tomorrow night's broadcast with a "bang."

Right now you can buy at record-breaking low prices the improved 1931 edition of the famous Goodyear All-Weather Tread Tire.

It is today and has been for 16 years the first-choice tire of the world.

This is not a mere claim; an unbiased public institution recently asked American motorists the question, "What tire is best?"

The vote, nation-wide and uninfluenced in any way, showed a preference for Goodyears nearly 2¼ times that for the second tire, and five times the average preference for all other makes.

If you want safety and mileage and style in full measure in the tires you buy now, you needn't deny yourself on account of cost.

This great new Goodyear sells today at the lowest prices ever, and at no premium over less popular makes of standard tires.

It is the smartest-looking equipment you can put upon your car, and it'll pile up performance for you that only top-quality can give.

Look at the tire and how low it's priced, then ask yourself the question: "Why buy a second-choice tire, when first-choice costs no more?"

BATTING LESSON

Twenty-one-year-old Joe Vosmik, who is hitting right up with the leaders in his first year in the majors, gave a batting lesson to Interviewer Austen Lake, a Boston baseball writer, the other day. There is something in what Joe says. Here's the yarn:

"There is a tradition in major league baseball that the best batting eyes are brown—a deep brown, shiny and alert, like those of Rogers Hornsby, Babe Ruth, Frank O'Doul, Al Simmons. But Cleveland Joe Vosmik's eyes are amber-green, though they have the same searching keenness that is characteristic of other sluggers.

"Hitting, so they say, is primarily in the eyes. The keener the sight the quicker the impulse to the nerve center that operates the mechanical action of the body. Eyes like those of Vosmik's ("headlights," Rabbit Maranville calls them) indicate the true hitter more than his sturdy shoulders and narrow hips. They are the pre-natal gift that made him a potential batting genius from the moment that he was born and not developed. For, as Ty Cobb used to say, great batters are born.

• • •

HOMER ON CURVED BALL

"It was Vosmik's hit over the left-field fence at Fenway park that broke up a ball game in the tenth inning yesterday.

"'What sort of pitch did you hit?' I asked.

"'A curve on the outside corner', he replied. 'A fairly wide curve. When I hit that long ball to Oliver in the sixth it was a straight, fast one, a little high. That single I scratched off the handle in the first was a change of pace, inside. I guess they are experimenting on me, mixing them to see whether I have any weak spots. They throw mostly curves to me because most young fellows just coming up are supposed to be a little shy on curves.'

• • •

FOLLOWING THE BALL

"'How much of a curve ball do you see before you hit it?'

"'Practically until my bat meets it. Of course a batter starts his swing just about when the ball begins to curve and as his swing develops he adjusts its direction to follow the ball. That's why he's got to watch it carefully until the bat meets it. I can even see the first flash of the ball's flight after the bat strikes it and it starts off on its ride.

"'It's all in the timing. There's a point where the swing reaches the maximum of its power. Your power increases as you approach that point and diminishes after. If you nail the ball at the peak it rides hard. Of course, if a batter is trying to steer his hit into the opposite field he's bound to sacrifice power to direction.'

"Vosmik is the son of Bohemian-born parents and gathered his first baseball schooling on the sandlots of Cleveland. He played for a team financed by a jeweler. Like so many other great hitters, including Ruth, Vosmik started out to be a pitcher. He won 15 straight games for the jeweler's team before deciding to become an outfielder.

"He spent two years in the minors, leading the Blue Ridge league with .382 and the Three Eye league with .397."

Everybody laughed when John McGraw, picking his all-star team last winter, put Lou Gehrig on first base . . . it isn't quite so laughable now . . . in a recent double header against the Brownies Lou drove in nine runs . . . he tripled three home . . . homered three more in . . . singled another one home . . . and homered again with a man on the hassocks . . . as far as glory is concerned Lou hasn't had his share . . . because the Bambino batted just ahead of him . . . and hogged the public applause.

GEORGE DYE VICTOR IN FIRST MAT BOUT

HOLLYWOOD, July 30.—(UP)—Dr. Karl Sarpolis of Cleveland won the main event of a wrestling show at the American Legion stadium last night by taking two out of three falls from John Plummer of Iowa, who substituted for Don Cortes.

George Dye, former U. S. C. football player, made an impressive debut as a wrestler when he pinned Frank Schroll in 9 minutes, 52 seconds, with a body crash.

COCHET DUE TO JOIN TILDEN'S PRO COMPANY?

NEW YORK, July 30.—(INS)—If the name of William T. Tilden, 3d, Philadelphia, is not listed among the "T's" in Bradstreet's for 1932 it won't be because Big Bill hasn't tried this year.

Large William has a schedule mapped out for Tilden Tennis Tours, Inc., for the remainder of 1931 which should bring the shekels into the Tilden coffers in large and copious quantities. There'll be very few lazy days for Big Bill between now and next New Year's Day.

Soon Big Bill will pack up his racquets, as will Francis Hunter, Emmett Pare, Bobby Sellers and Karel Kozeluh, the other members of the troupe, and another long tour of the "sticks" will be begun.

It costs $2000 a week to keep Tilden Tennis Tours, Inc., going. With two to four or five exhibitions scheduled every week for the next two months, however, Big Bill isn't worrying about those two grand. The name of William T. Tilden is still a big drawing card among the country-folk, and there are few towns which fail to send at least 1500 or 2000 cash customers to Big Bill's tennis circus.

On September 25 Tilden shakes the dust of his native country from his feet, and with Frank Hunter as his only partner, departs for Europe. He will spend six weeks there, picking up such "pro's" as Ramillion in France, Plaa and Najuch in Germany, and Burke and Mascell in England, to give him and Hunter opposition. Paris, London, Berlin and others of the big European cities will be afforded the opportunity of watching Tilden in action as a professional.

On November 10, it's back to the good old United States for Large William. He may still have Karel Kozeluh with him and then again he may not. Sotto voce—perhaps it'll be Henri Cochet.

The winter tour, of necessity, will be confined to the large indoor arenas in the East. Madison Square Garden is expected to house Big Bill and his barnstormers again and the Boston, Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington courts, too. Then Westward, Ho! wil be the watchword of Tilden Tennis Tours, Inc., with outdoor matches in the Southwest and California winding up the winter schedule.

Stars Trounce Torrance, 8-3

NEAR CAPACITY CROWD CHEERS BENEFIT GAME

Insurance funds of the Orange County Peace Officers' association were increasad to the extent of several hundred dollars today as a result of the benefit baseball game played at the Bowl last night, and won by Santa Ana from Torrance, 8-3.

A near-capacity throng paid its way into the park and many others purchased tickets for the worthy cause that were not used.

Those who employed their pasteboards got a good show.

Peace officers of northern and southern Orange county played a brief comedy of errors; a team of pyramid No. 41, Santa Ana Sciots, drilled; the bugle and drum corps of Santa Ana post No. 131, American Legion, demonstrated anew their well known efficiency; the imperturbable Norman Sprowl, Fox theaters manager, introduced all the celebrities.

Then there was the piece de resistance of the program, a ball game that was better than the score indicates.

Torrance Team Impressive

Torrance, anxious to obtain a National Night league franchise in '32, displayed a capable, aggressive aggregation that made the Stars hustle hard. Russ Coggans, a Torrance boy who has been on Anaheim's staff this summer, was on the knoll for the visitors, did quite well. He was hit hard only in one inning, the eighth, most of Santa Ana's other runs being traceable to wobbly support.

Joe Cornelius and Earl Morrill divided the pitching chores for the home guard, and Manager George Lackaye took advantage of the occasion to run in the game most everybody he had in suit. Horace Snow, patriarch of the coaching lines, was one of these and the old boy gave the big crowd a bang by blasting a beautiful single over second base in the eighth. Snow has a perfect batting average for the season—twice at bat, two hits.

"Red" Watson, Torrance's tall catcher, accounted for all of the aliens' tallies. Dietzel opened the second with a single and Watson scored him with a triple that took a bad hop past Merrill in right field. Watson scored on Neva's infield out. In the fourth Watson rifled down the right field foul line.

Stars Score In First

Santa Ana got one in the first when Leavitt Daley was safe on Wolfe's error at first base, advanced on Hill's sacrifice, scored from second when Wolfe let Leonard's throw on Merrill's bunt go through him.

Bell singled infield in the second, went to second on Wilcox's infield out. L. Daley drilled sharply to Vonderahe at shortstop, who fumbled, then held the ball in the wildest confusion while the daring Daley streaked to second. Vonderahe finally tossed to Neva and Bell scored. Daley then stole third, tallied on a passed ball.

Nelson was safe on Wolfe's third error in the sixth, raced home on Darwin Scott's double to center. Bell bounded to Wolfe, who tried unsuccessfully for Scott at third, all hands being safe. Bell took second unmolested. Wilcox's infield out scored Scott, put Bell on third from whence he counted on a passed ball.

The Stars did their first real hitting in the eighth. The first four batsmen—Ed Daley, Snow, Scott, and Bell—singled cleanly to the outfield. Daley and Snow scored.

MACKMEN MAY RANK GREATEST OF ALL TEAMS

By HENRY McLEMORE

SEABRIGHT, N. J., July 30. — (UP)—When Miller Huggins, that little ball of concentrated dynamite, was driving his New York Yankees of 1926 '27 and '28 through the American league with all the subtlety of an armored tank gone beserk, baseball men said the game never had seen the likes of the mite manager and his battering babies; that the slugging, blasting Men of Manhattan were the outstanding team of all time.

Sure, mates, the Yankees were a tremendous machine back in those days, what with Pennock, Pipgras, Hoyt and the rest pitching like demons and Ruth, Gehrig and company hitting any and all balls out of the lot and into Mrs. Greenberg's back yard.

But the Yankees, great as they were, are likely to be displaced as the "team of the age" when September fades into October and Connie Mack presents his Philadelphia Athletics — three times champions of the American league. If these same Athletics go on to whip the best in the National for their third successive world's series (something that never has been accomplished) then the A's and not the Yanks must be classed as the super outfit of all time.

That the A's will win in the American is as certain as death and taxes, if not more so. Moreover, they are almost a sure thing to better the Yankees' American mark of 110 games won in 1927 and it is not entirely beyond the bounds of reason to expect Mister Mack's boys to surpass the all- time record of 116 games won in a single season established by the Chicago Cubs in 1906.

To turn this latter trick the Athletics must win 45 of their remaining games. A tremendous task, it's true, but one entirely within the abilities of a team that today is 12 full games ahead of the field and ticking off victories with a regularity worthy of a first class metronone.

HIGGINS SHINES AS ANAHEIM WINS, 4-1

Lanky Malcolm Higgins, formerly with North Long Beach, was the hero of Anaheim's 4-1 victory over Colton in an exhibition game at Anaheim last night. Higgins signed an Anaheim contract just before game-time.

His home run in the fifth accounted for two runs and his fine pitching in the last four innings silenced Colton mats. Higgins was robbed of another homer by a sensational catch by Gilbert.

The score:

	R	H	E
Colton	1	4	0
Anaheim	4	7	1

Batteries: Colton—A. Sorensen, Montgomery and Strinati, L. Sorensen; Anaheim—Errington, Higgins and Androus.

A'S VS. CARDS LIKELY WORLD SERIES LINEUP

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN
(I.N.S. Sports Writer)

NEW YORK, July 30.—Unless the unforseen happens, the world series of 1931 will feature a return engagement between the formidable St. Louis Cardinals and the highly efficient, machine-like Philadelphia Athletics, two-time champions.

With only eight weeks to go, the A's virtually have clinched the American league flag while the Cardinals are breezing along holding a substantial lead over Chicago, New York and Brooklyn in the National league.

It would require one of the most astounding upsets in baseball history to beat the A's out of the bunting and, as for the Cardinals, they seem to have too much class for the three clubs that are trailing them.

First Game September 30?

Consequently, it is almost safe at this writing to predict that the first game of the world series will be played at a Sportsman park in St. Louis September 30. This fall the "A's will open on allen grounds, the National league getting the privilege of staging the initial contest under the rotation plan.

Of course the managers of the clubs still mathematically in the running in both leagues do not concede the pennants to either the A's or the Cardinals. In the American league, the Washington Senators, trailing the A's about 11 games, are still in the fight—as are the New York Yankees who are battling bravely four games behind the second place Senators.

The A's have dominated the American league all season. It has been a poor race because no team has been able to stop Connie Mack's great club with its remarkable pitching trio of Grove, Earnshaw and Walberg. Washington has made a gallant fight but the rest of the league has flopped badly, with the possible exception of the third-place New York Yankees who still feature a punch in "Babe" Ruth and Lou Gehrig.

Red Sox Improve

Boston's Red Sox under the guidance of Manager Shano Colins, have done well, moving up from a chronic last- place club to a sixth-place contender. The other teams —Cleveland, St. Louis, Chicago and Detroit—haven't been much, although the Browns of late have been making a fine showing and promise to do much better than last year.

In the National league the three runners-up—Chicago, New York and Brooklyn—staggered under pressure in the last week just enough to ease the pressure on St. Louis, as a result the Cardinals are stepping along at a steady clip, eight to 11 games ahead of the three pursuing clubs. With August on us, something will have to be done soon by the contenders or it will be too late.

The Cubs have not lived up to expectations. One important reason for this is the dismal failure of "Hack" Wilson, the slugging outfielder, to play up to his 1930 standards. Other members of the club, who did so well last year under Manager Joe McCarthy, have fallen down under Rogers Hornsby. Added to all these complications, Hornsby has been forced to take himself out of the regular lineup because his legs are gaing back on him.

Chicago Shakeup Likely

If the Cubs fail to come through for the capable and aggressive Hornsby, itneresting changes may be anticipated.

Manager John J. McGraw's New York Giants seem to lack the vital spark characteristic of most of McGraw's fighting ball clubs. They are too self complacent an aggregation. Then, too, their pitching staff has been unable to stand the gaff. And, in addition, they have been severely handicapped by the falldown in Bill Terry's hitting, the injury that forced Freddie Lindstrom out of the game with a broken leg and the absence of Hughey Critz, the clever second baseman who is out with a sore arm.

Brooklyn's heavy- hitting ball club is the enigma of the season. Potentially a great team, the Dodgers got away to such a miserable start that they never have been able to make up enough lost ground even though less than a fortnight ago they were making threatening gestures at the Cardinals.

O'DOUL HITS STRIDE

"Lefty" O'Doul, the outfielder, has been batting at a sensational clip, moving up into the charmed circle of the "five leading hitters" after a shocking fall at the start of the season.

"Babe" Herman has been hitting, too, but Brooklyn fails to make headway. The chief reason seems to be the fact that the pitching staff which includes several aging veterans has begun to wilt under the pressure of the race.

And so the races are likely to be over Labor Day with the 1931 world series featuring the old familiar Cardinals and Athletics. It should be a great world series, at that.

Colton May Quit Inland Ball League

Thoroughly dissatisfied with current conditions in the American Night league, Colton's crack baseball team has indicated it will leave that circuit at the close of the present season.

The champions of Inland confederacy think they were the victims of a "fast one" recently pulled by other members of the loop.

Riverside recently protested a game it lost to the Reds, 5-4, complaining that Colton's fans and players were unsportsmanlike and that the umpires were inefficient.

A meeting of league managers was called and Riverside's protest disallowed—but the managers then tossed out one of Colton's previous victories over Riverside, a first half game and one that never was protested at the time. They ordered the affair replayed, the title depending on it.

Colton, refusing to abide by such a decision, has appealed for a ruling to the Southern California Night Ball association.

TENNIS EXPERT THINKS VINES NEXT CHAMPION

BY MICHAEL J. FOSTER
(I.N.S. Sports Writer)

SEABRIGHT, N. J., July 30.—Today's singles competition at Seabright will be confined to the women, who will play their semi-finals this afternoon. They stage their final round Saturday.

Mrs. Helen Wills Moody, seeking the trophy which has five years eluded her, will play the surprising Mrs. Marion Zinderstein Jessup, whose feat of conquering Penelope Anderson, Mrs. John Van Ryn and "Midge" Morrill, the latter the second ranking player of the country, on consecutive days, has brought her into the limelight.

Helen Jacobs meets a fellow-Californian, Mrs. Lawrence Harper. Despite the awe-inspiring ranking of Mrs. Harper, she is the No. 1 woman player of the United States, Miss Jacobs is not expected to have much difficulty passing her semi-final test. Mrs. Harper is not in the same class with either of the two Helens.

Mrs. Jessup may well give Mrs. Moody a hard battle, however. The former first ten star has come out from her temporary retirement an entirely rejuvenated player, and she is expected to take five or six games from the world's champion before she is conquered.

It may be picking 'em a bit early, but we'd like to go on record now, six weeks before the championships are contested as picking Ellsworth Vines of Pasadena, Calif., as the next national men's singles champion.

The lanky coast stripling, who leaped into nationwide prominence last summer with his remarkable victories over Frank Hunter and Frank Shields at the Crescent A. C. and Seabright, seems to improve with every match.

Thanks to a straight-set victory over Cliff Sutter yesterday, Vines is ensconsed in the final round of the Seabright tournament today, a strong favorite to conquer Johnny Doeg, the present national champion, when they meet for the Seabright bowl tomorrow.

The Pasadena youngster has improved his game tremendously since last season—and both Hunter and Shields will tell you it needed little improvement then. Doeg looked like anything but a champion against Jack Tidball of California yesterday.

NO THREE-LETTERS

Southern California boasted no great all-around athletes during the past year, but Orv Mohler, Garrett Arbelbide and Dutch Wilcox won letters in football and baseball and Bob Hall and Johnny Baker won awards in football and track.

ORANGE, NIGHT TILT FEATURES OF PREP CARD

Practice games with Orange, Whittier, Roosevelt, Compton and the San Diego Army and Navy academy appear on Santa Ana high school's football schedule for 1931, announced tentatively today by Coach "Tex" Oliver.

Six Coast Preparatory league contests, previously published, will round out the program, the most ambitious undertaken by a Saint squad since Oliver arrived here as mentor in the fall of 1926.

It is possible that one of the pre-league matches will be scratched, leaving 10 games in all, but in any event followers of prep football are assured of a most attractive fall series.

High lights of the non-conference group will be games with Orange and Whittier.

Orange gave the Saints a terrific afternoon in the season's curtain-raiser last year. The game ended in a 6-6 tie, but Orange was the "moral winner," playing inside the Santa Ana 30-yard line most of the last half, only an 80-yard touchdown run by Al Reboin saving the homesters. Tentative arrangements call for the 1931 edition of the annual Santa Ana-Orange feud to be played at Orange.

Night Game Offered S. A.

The Saint-Whittier affair probably will be a night game Friday, September 25, on the illuminated gridiron at Whittier college. Whittier has offered Santa Ana the date and Oliver has indicated he will accept if the rest of his schedule works out as expected.

Roosevelt and Compton are two schools that usually produce powerful elevens, strong enough to extend Oliver's eleven. The Saints defeated Roosevelt, 7 to 0, last season. Compton is an ex-member of the Coast league. It will be affiliated with the Bay league again in the fall.

The San Diego Army and Navy set-to is booked for October 10, when all other schools will be opening their league schedules. Santa Ana draws a "bye" that day.

Coach Oliver has arranged a heavy pre-league schedule for the prime reason that his squad, hard hit by graduation and ineligibilities, will be in need of experience more than anything else. Losing 13 of his 18 lettermen, Oliver must develop reserve strength for the big games against San Diego and Long Beach.

Lose 13 Lettermen

Departing veterans are Captain Al Reboin, Harold Pangle, Don Crumley, Hideo Higashi, Dallas Rejchstein, Joe Preininger, Roy Harvey, Jim Daneri, Tom Beasley, Gilbert Meisinger, Bill Donahue, Garth Olsen and Glenn Minter.

Returning are Captain-elect Floyd Blower, an end who probably will be used in the backfield; "Red" Kidder, a blocking back who is apt to replace Reboin at quarter; "Porky" Bell, a halfback who may try end; Lawrence Lutz, expected to prove one of the best tackles in the league, and Max Wilson, a small but hard-hitting back who may wind up as a running guard.

Determined to press every advantage in the effort to build up his depleted squad, Coach Oliver plans to begin practice as soon "as the law allows," which is September 1. Equipment will be issued August 31.

The first game is tentatively lined up for September 19, but may be held as early as September 12.

The Saints' schedule follows:

Sept. 12—Roosevelt at Santa Ana or Orange at Orange.
Sept. 19—Roosevelt at Santa Ana or Orange at Orange.
Sept. 25— Whittier at Whittier (Night Game.)
October 3—Compton at Santa Ana.
October 10—San Diego Army and Navy academy at Santa Ana.
October 17—San Diego Hi at Santa Ana.
October 24—Santa Ana at Pasadena.
October 31—Santa Ana at Long Beach.
November 7 — Glendale at Santa Ana.
November 14—Alhambra at Santa Ana.
November 21—Santa Ana at Fullerton.

Coast Golfers To Play On S. A. Links

Golfers of the Orange County Coast association will play their August tourney at the Santa Ana Country club course, according to Hal Warner, chairman of the association's golf committee. The match was first arranged for the Long Beach municipal links.

A tourney between a team of Associated Chambers of Commerce of Orange county members and Coast association players is being planned, according to Warner. It is likely that this tourney will be played on the San Clemente course.

REPORTS GIVEN AT SESSION OF COUNTY C. OF C.

Reports on various Orange county activities were made at the monthly dinner meeting of the Associated Chambers of Commerce at Laguna Beach Tuesday night.

Harold Wahlberg, reporting on agricultural matters told of the farm bureau conference of officials of the national organization and of the 11 western states and said that it was the most successful ever held, there being about 600 delegates in attendance. His report was supplemented by that of Roland D. Flaherty, executive secretary of the Orange County Farm bureau, who told of the entertaining of the delegates made possible through cooperation by the supervisors.

Tariff Aids County

Wahlberg reported that a delegation of horticulturists from Palestine, South Africa, South America, Australia and Mediterranean countries would be in this county Saturday, their interest largely in semi-tropical fruits. He also told of making a visit to Lower California and of how the chili pepper and lima bean industry of Orange county is being protected from competition from Lower California by the tariff. That visitors should be allowed to pick oranges as the greatest thrill that can be offered them was recommended by him.

Ralph McFadden of the educational committee said that because of the lack of interest on the part of Santa Ana school directors, the projected survey of educational needs of Orange county in the interests of a junior college had been abandoned. He added that the committee was now putting its time in on the water program.

Tells of Highway

Superintendent of Highways Nat Neff told of the highway projects under way or considered, especially mentioning, with others, the 40-foot roadway being built from Serra to San Clemente and that contracts would soon be let for the widening from Laguna Beach to the Newport road along the coast.

That further development of Newport harbor is needed in order to realize on the investment already made was asserted by Lew Wallace, who told of difficulties in maintaining the harbor entrance clear and also reported on the Tournament of Lights.

In a report on disbursement of funds for advertising and methods and media used, V. D. Johnson told how the funds are administered. He also announced that 200 Pennsylvania farmers will tour Orange county August 13.

George Raymer, Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce secretary, reported that 126 are signed for the trip to Mexico starting in November, that 38 or 40 are those who took the trip last year, and that of the 18 days, a solid week will be spent in the City of Mexico.

Hal Warner, who welcomed the guests to Travaglini's and Laguna Beach, reported on a golf tournament being arranged between the coast association and the chambers of the county, dwelt on night baseball as a part of county entertainment, and said that the new bowling green at Laguna will probably be used for practice by teams to compete in the Olympic games next year.

Joe Scherman, forest ranger, told of forest work and fire control in this county and his work was commended by Supervisor Willard Smith.

Lotus Loudon reported on the Orange show, which he said was a success. Methods of stabilizing oil prices were discussed by E. H. Trefz, but a resolution offered for co-operation in raising prices was laid over for a month under a rule of the body. Clyde Downing facilitated the meeting on its spirit and interest and place of meeting.

Tells Hotel Plan

Bruce Verne Crandall explained the plan, started at Laguna Beach, to get hotel owners of the county together on a plan to handle conventions and stimulate winter business. He also reported on the recently formed Greater Orange County Development committee, of which he is head, and which is the project at present of newspaper men of the county. The August meeting is to be held in Huntington Beach. Most of the communities of the county were represented on roll call made by Secretary May. Harold Wahlberg responded to the address of welcome made by Hal Warner. O. T. Stephens, of La Habra, president of the Associated Chambers of Commerce of Orange county, presided.

TELL INTERESTING FACTS ABOUT COST OF MOVIES

The American public pays $4,000,000 to see a typical successful motion picture, but only $370,000 of that money is spent on making the film.

Detailed figures to back up this statement are given in the August issue of Fortune, the de luxe business magazine, in the first authoritative analysis of a motion picture balance sheet ever made available to the general public.

"Body and Soul," the Fox war film starring Charles Farrell and Elissa Landi, is used as the basis for the study in the belief that it was a "typical, hence a mediocre" picture. The complete story of the "shooting" at Hollywood is reconstructed from the account books, and the balance sheet is itemized to show the tremendous spread between production costs and box office receipts.

The highest single item in the cost of this typical production, according to the survey, was Director Alfred Santell's $50,000 salary. (He handles five pictures every two years at that figure.) The two stars shared $40,000 for their five weeks' work. Myrna Loy and Humphrey Bogart split another $8,000, receiving $1500 a week for about half the time it took to shoot the pictures. Twelve other actors received a total of $9,000, while 714 extras were paid $7,500 at from $5 to $12.50 a day.

Itemize Expenses

Movie rights (for a play that never reached Broadway) cost $15,000, and $15,000 more was spent on the dialogue and the re-arrangement of the scenes. Other charges connected with the five weeks' production cost included $7,500 for camera men (a good one gets $350 a week), $9,000 for electricians, $5,000 for wardrobe, $25,000 for film, $4,000 for lights, $50,000 for sets, $12,000 for the director's staff, and $87,000 for this picture's share of the annual Fox overhead.

"Take 'Body and Soul'," says the article, "multiply it by 300, add 250 minor features, 2,500 shorts, several million feet of news reels, comics, and educationals, and you have the Movie Business. It takes from the people $1,200,000,000 a year (steel takes $2,000,000,000). Much the largest part of this vast sum is paid for the theater (cost of land and building, upkeep, etc.) and not for the all-essential picture.

"The movie companies, of course, own a great many of the theaters. But to them, purely as picture producers, goes probably not more than $230,000,000—not more than one-quarter of the $1,200,000,000 box office receipts. Foreign rentals will add about $70,000,000 a year. Out of this $300,000,000 and again as picture producers, they make about $30,000,000. To be a typically successful film, 'Body and Soul' would have to make about $125,000, thus contributing a typical sum towards the total $30,000,000 profit.

"Few critics realize," says Fortune, "that some 75 per cent of the national theater audience is under 25 years of age (not psychologically, but actually) or at best, consists of parents dragged to shows by the kids. The American cinema, in other words, consciously plays to children. A higher product would not come within $1,000,000,000 of tapping the vast sum which this immature public is ready to spend on these expensive, realistic illusions."

BARBER CITY

BARBER CITY, July 30.—A. N. Olson had an operation performed Monday in Long Beach to relieve trouble which has kept him ill at his home the past week. There are two visitors in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Olson this week, Mrs. Oland and Mrs. Hansen of Santa Monica.

James Winslow has a new deep well pump installed this week and is securing a fine flow of water for irrigation purposes on his ranch.

Mrs. O. J. Slater is about again following a serious illness. The condition of Mr. Slater, who has been ill for some weeks, remains about the same.

Liquor Plays Part In Breaking Home

Declaring that her husband drank to excess, did not support her, and treated her in a cruel and inhuman manner, Olive M. Kidder has filed suit for divorce against Roy C. Kidder. The couple was married February 14, 1928 and her husband's behavior caused her such physical and mental suffering that they separated July 18, 1931, the complaint alleged.

In her complaint Mrs. Kidder alleged that her husband, because of his excessive drinking was unable to attend to his business and on several occasions was brought home in an intoxicated condition.

LIVING COSTS IN STATE ARE LOWER

SACRAMENTO, Calif., July 30.—(UP)—Living cost in California in June were 6.5 per cent lower as compared with December, 1930, according to the United States Department of Labor.

From the peak of prices, in June, 1920, to June, 1931, according to a report on file with the state department of commerce, the cost of living in the United States generally decreased 30.6 per cent.

Food prices show the greatest drop in the past six months, with a decline of 13.8 per cent.

MODERN MARKET IS BEING REMODELED

In keeping with the name of his store R. R. Miller, owner and operator of the Modern Market, situated at 408 South Main street, is at present engaged in modernizing and remodeling his store. The finest and most efficient equipment for self-service convenience is being installed, Miller says.

An innovation in vegetable stands is included among other conveniences which are being added. This type of stand is the first of its kind to be introduced anywhere in this vicinity and will prove to be a sensation among vegetable shoppers, Miller announced.

A drop in prices with only a slight extra charge for charge accounts and home delivery to a distance over four blocks, is to become the store policy. An added service is the special call order plan whereby customers can telephone for their purchases and the articles will be ready and put in their cars for the self-service price.

Miller has been in business at his present location for over three years.

INSTALLMENT V

Peter would have laughed, first and then grown distinctly angry, if you had suggested to him that he might fall in love with a married woman, and, especially, with the wife of a man he himself knew. That was one of the things a man didn't do. His code forbade it, so it couldn't happen to him.

So he didn't have the faintest idea, the night he met Martha Thayer, that he was done for; that he was already in love with her when they rode eastward in that decrepit, rickety taxi and he made her take back her bracelet and promised to give the oily, unpleasant man at Emma's five hundred dollars in her behalf. He was aware of a sort of glow of chivalrous feeling toward her. He knew that he disapproved strongly of Tack; he thought Martha had thrown herself away, probably, when she married him. But that he was in love with her himself was something he was only to realize very slowly; so slowly that he had no sort of chance to escape from what he must have known, had he had any warning of it, could only be a wounding and sorry experience.

She called him up in the morning. He was still asleep, really when she telephoned, about half past ten; late hours never mattered much to Martha.

"Want to feed me lunch?" she said. "I owe you an explanation—as well as a few other trifles! About one o'clock?"

"I'd love to—" he said. "But—you know—about all that— you don't have to explain—and the other—there's not the least bit of hurry—"

"Oh, I'd rather, thanks!" she said. "Both ways! Where do you want to have lunch? Some quiet place, where we can talk, I think."

But he was no good at all when it came to thinking up quiet places where one could talk; he had no experience of the sort that develops such knowledge in a man, and singularly little capacity for intrigue, any way. She chuckled at his feeble suggestions; named a place herself, finally; Romi's, in the fifties.

"Tell them you know Tack, and they'll let you in," she said. "But I won't be late."

They came very near to meeting outside Romi's; she rang the bell, in fact, as he was getting rid of his hat and coat, and they went upstairs to the bar, first, and had a cocktail, and then found a secluded table and ordered lunch.

"Here you are," she said, and pushed a check across the table toward him. "I'm ever so grateful. You were perfectly right, of course—giving Benny that bracelet would have been an asinine thing to do. It—it's bad enough as it is—"

He had, just for a moment, and for the first time, a clear realization, then, from the catch in her voice, that she really was in a desperately serious jam of some sort. Then she laughed her deep, throaty laugh.

"It's all right!" she said. "Don't look so tragic, my dear! The creature hasn't got hold of any compromising letters of mine, or anything like that!"

"I never thought—" he began, stiffly.

"I wouldn't blame you, whatever you thought!" she said. "I've got into a silly mess, and I'll have to wangle my way out of it. You helped a lot, last night.

Then, abruptly, she changed the subject; seemed, too, quite definitely, to pass from one mood to another.

"Tack's quite mad about you," she said.

Peter was surprised, but he didn't think for a moment that Martha was just making talk.

"I scarcely know him!" he protested. "Why, I don't suppose I've talked to him a dozen times—"

"Well, it seems you got him out of some mess at New Haven, and he's always been grateful—"

Peter laughed. He did, vaguely, now, remember. He'd been at a road house, down toward Milford, one night, and a gang of freshmen had got involved in a row. He'd helped to straighten it out, and later, when the college authorities, having heard of it, were investigating, he'd been able to help again; Peter had been the sort of undergraduate whose word went a long way with faculty committees.

"You seem to be the sort of man who's always talked about whenever two or three Yale men get together, anyway," said Martha. "I've heard about you, now that I come to think of it." She chuckled. "If I'd remembered, I'd never have dared to ask you to help, last night. They made you sound like a scoutmaster or a settlement worker, or something like that."

Peter was justifiably enraged.

"I'm not!" he said, indignantly.

"My dear—don't you suppose I know you're not?" said Martha. "Didn't my spirit call to yours, accross the vasty deep of Emma's bar last night? You're a bad man who's never had a chance in life! New York'll put you wrong in no time. Are you busy tonight?"

"No," said Peter. That ought to have warned him; the swift readiness with which he lied. He was supposed to be dining at his sister's.

"You're dining with us, then—on the roof. About eight. We're going on, later, to the Kendall party, so you'd better wear a white tie."

Lunch had lasted a long time, but, though they'd talked about all sorts of things, Peter couldn't have told you very much of what had been said, later, if you'd asked him.

Peter wasn't used to girls of Martha's sort at all, you see. She wasn't like the girls he'd known ten years ago. She had a quick wit, a flashing conversational method; she said things that seemed to be superficially clever, and turned out, when you looked into them, to be deeper than they seemed. She was cynical, but he had an idea that her cynicism didn't go very deep; that it covered an emotional nature of which she was rather afraid, because she had found out, already, that when you felt things you were likely to get hurt.

That represented pretty involved character analysis for Peter, who hadn't had much occasion, as yet, to study people. His work, you see, had always been abstract and impersonal; it hadn't involved many human contacts. It didn't strike him that he was taking an altogether unusual interest, for him, in Martha; that he was quite unprecedentedly concerned with her mind and her reactions to life.

Peter knew a good deal, in a one-sided, theoretical fashion, about psychology that dates back only to the announcement of the results of Freud's earlier studies. His knowledge wasn't what he himself would have called scientific, but it went well beyond that of the ordinary layman. On the other hand, it was oddly incomplete, because he'd never tried to apply it; never, somehow, thought of connecting Mr. A— and Mrs. B—and Miss C—, of the case histories, with the people he sat next to at dinner or saw, casually, across the aisle in a Pullman.

He knew that the most ordinary, the most commonplace looking people, did do things that it took all the wisdom and the skill of a Freud or a Jung or an Adler to rationalize and explain. But it didn't strike him that Martha, for example, or his own sister, might conceal such potentialities.

Martha left him, abruptly, half a block from Romi's, at three o'clock, and he dropped in at his sister's to make his excuses. Mrs. Wentworth, who had been Carol Wayne, was older than Peter by two or three years; the wife of a successful and prosperous lawyer, she was a mondaine of a sort commoner in New York than visiting Europeans are, as a rule, prepared to admit. She saw through Peter's transparently inadequate excuses at once, and was amused.

"Darling—of course it's all right!" she said. "I can get any one of a dozen men to fill in for you—and your bridge is abominable, so I can assure you you won't be missed! I'm rather glad, really. It's time you began to be interested in girls. There really are some rather nice ones around, you know."

"Don't be silly," said Peter. "It's nothing like that—"

"All right, then, it isn't," said Carol, unmoved. "You can tell me where you are dining, though, if you like."

He looked at her. Carol always made him feel like a small boy, but that is, of course, a way that sisters have, wholly regardless of the accidents of seniority of birth.

"With some people called Thayer, if you want to know. I knew the man in college."

"Tack Thayer?" said Carol, and frowned, just for a second. "He's a lot younger than you—I'd no idea you were at New Haven at the same time."

"Well, we were," said Peter.

"You ought to know," said Carol, appeasingly. "So they're still keeping up appearances, are they?"

"What do you mean by that?"

She opened her eyes wide. And laughed.

"I'm always forgetting you've been away!" she said. "Every one's expecting to hear that that marriage has crashed any day. Martha's mad about some boy—I forget his name. And Tack—well—what they say about him is nobody's business!"

"Meaning it's everybody's, I suppose," said Peter, nastily. "What a rotten town this is getting to be! I didn't know you'd turned gossip, though, Carol."

"I don't think I have, exactly," she said, not at all annoyed. "You are such a blue-eyed innocent, my lamb, that I like to let you know what's going on. And this town has changed. That's all. You never could see things that were right under your nose, and I don't suppose you ever will. Martha's a sweet child, but they've been in with a bad crowd, and—well—I'd just as soon you knew what you were getting into. Take it or leave it."

"Good Lord!" said Peter. "What do you mean, what I'm getting into? I'm dining with these kids, that's all. It hasn't occurred to me that I ought to come around and get you to tell all the dirt there is about every house I dine at."

"Quite," said Carol. "Still—after all, you did lead me to think you were dining here tonight, and you are letting me know at tea time that you won't! Go your own gait, my dear. Only—if you want a bit of advice, go slow."

If she happened to look from the window, she must have seen that he wasn't taking that advice literally, at any rate. For he fairly strode down the wide pavement, and anger and bewilderment were easy to read in his bearing. You may be a little sorry for Peter at this point, if you like; he was heading for trouble.

PLAN SPECIAL FEATURES FOR IOWA PICNIC

The Iowa association of Southern California today had announced its call to the annual summer picnic outing to be held all day Saturday, August 8, in Bixby park, at Long Beach.

Judge William Hazlett, president will be in charge and preside on this occasion, which it is believed will attract many thousands. Mayor Fickling of Long Beach will voice the welcome and there will be responses by Judge Carl I. Stutsman and Hon. Lyman M. King. California's most noted cornetist, Dr. Ed M. Hiner, and Mrs. Hiner, will give their wonderful cornet and vocal numbers.

The special feature of the day will be the "Golden Wedding Pageant, under charge of John G. Spielman of Long Beach. Every couple married 50 years or more is included in the call and all are asked to take dinner together in a shady reserved section and then go to the platform for program. There will be special exercises for these people and several fine prizes will be distributed, the oldest couple, the one with most descendants in the park with them, and many others.

Many well known Iowa leaders and officials will be introduced. The picnic invitation includes all the Hawkeyes in the entire west.

LOS ANGELES.—Elliott W. Sparling thought his wife should be "sedate, autere and sisterly" toward him. But Marguerite Sparling didn't want to be that way. She told Superior Judge Guy F. Bush in a divorce suit that she wanted to be "full of pep and laughing and kissable." She was granted a divorce and alimony.

Water Report To Be Made At Farm Bureau Meeting

Members of the Orange County Farm bureau water committee and members of Farm Center water committees will hold a meeting in the Farm bureau office tomorrow at 7:30 p. m., it was announced today by Roland D. Flaherty, secretary of the bureau. The committee expects to bring a report on the progress made in investigating water conditions in the county and particularly in connection with the matter of the pollution of underground water stratas by operations in connection with drilling oil wells.

According to reports, oil wells are drilled without consideration to the injury that may be done to underground water basins and in many cases wells have been drilled that have caused salt water to flow into the fresh water stratas. Such a condition exists at Santa Fe Springs, it is said, and Ventura county is reported to be experiencing a great deal of difficulty in the same manner. There is no regulation affecting the drilling of oil wells and the possible resultant damage done to water basins, it is said.

Metropolitan Board Announces Construction Policy

WILL EMPLOY ONLY CITIZENS OF DISTRICT

Employment of American citizens and citizens of the Metropolitan Water district exclusively at a fair wage scale and under healthful conditions will be the policy to be followed in construction of the $220,000,000 Colorado river aqueduct, it was learned today from Col. S. H. Finley, secretary to the board of directors of the district.

An average of approximately 10,000 workers will be directly benefited by such a program during the construction period of approximately six years' duration, according to figures compiled under the direction of Frank E. Weymouth, chief engineer.

The district's labor policy, which was announced by Chairman W. P. Whitsett, contains the following points:

(1)) All employes shall be American citizens and citizens of the Metropolitan Water district.

(2) Labor shall receive a fair standard of wages, at the prevailing scale.

(3) Healthful food and clean, comfortable quarters shall be provided.

(4) The application of every possible safety measure shall be practiced.

(5) The aqueduct construction shall be managed so that a maximum amount of relief to unemployment and business shall be afforded.

(6) The taxpayer must receive a dollar's value for every dollar expended on the project.

"The Metropolitan apueduct from the Colorado river will be built by citizens of the water district for the benefit of citizens of the district," Whitsett said.

"In addition to providing an adequate water supply, construction of this great aqueduct will release $220,000,000 in payrolls and for the purchase of materials and supplies during the six-year building period," he continued.

It is pointed out that the 10,000 men employed on the giant aqueduct project constitute only a small part of the army which is to be benefited by the district's investment of $220,000,000.

Many thousands more will be put into employment indirectly in the manufacture and transportation of materials. This group "behind the lines" will be further enlarged by the general business stimulation which is to follow the release of such a vast sum of eastern "cold storage" money into California's commercial channels, extending even to retail merchants such as the grocer, the clothier and the hardware dealer.

ARRANGEMENTS BEING MADE FOR ELECTION

Arrangements for the special Metropolitan water district bond election to be held September 29 were made yesterday in Orange county by O. A. Torgensen, assistant superintendent of elections, from the office of the Los Angeles city clerk. Torgensen was in Santa Ana conferring with County Clerk Joe Backs and securing election data for use in arranging precincts and polling places.

According to the data given Torgensen by Backs, the 14,934 registered voters in Santa Ana cast their ballots in 56 precincts at the last election. In Anaheim 4558 registered voters went to the polls in 19 precincts, while 4632 voters cast their ballots in 16 Fullerton polling places.

Whether or not these precincts will be the same for the water bond election is unknown. Backs said that the election is being handled through the office of the Los Angeles city clerk and all returns will probably be sent direct to that office, following the vote count here and in other cities of Orange county. Torgensen did not give any intimation as to whether or not polling would be conducted in the regular city precincts or whether they would be rearranged by combining several regular precincts into special larger precincts.

APPEAL MADE FOR SUPPORT OF S. A. RADIO

In a statement issued today by J. F. Burke, who has backed operation of radio station KREG in Santa Ana, possibility of relinquishment of station control to others was seen, unless there is more support of the station by the community. The statement follows:

"As the public probably knows, KREG is not owned by The Register, nor by its publisher. The publisher of The Register has assumed the responsibility for KREG and we have been paying the bills over and above what the income has been from every source possible.

"This has run into considerable money. We have endeavored to increase its income in every legitimate way possible, but are unable to do so to a point sufficient to meet the deficit. This we deem very unfortunate, for we believe that the radio is one of the finest sources imaginable of advertising the city of Santa Ana and its merchants.

"There is nothing better except the newspaper itself. For purposes of entertainment for continuous time, the radio cannot be excelled.

"We have had constantly in mind the development of the radio program and even contemplated getting a national broadcasting program over KREG. This would have cost us some $800 a month additional, but finances will not permit us to continue, and, unless those who conceive the value in KREG, either from a city point of view or from the merchant point of view, manifest a desire and a determination to aid substantially, we will be forced to release our control of it and let it go into the hands of others who will not be confined to some of the rules concerning advertising to which we have constantly adhered.

"If there are any who are desirous of aiding financially in sustaining or developing the station, we should like to hear from them, as we have a proposition to be relieved of the responsibility.

(Signed) "J. F. BURKE."

5. "Grand Fantasia on Antediluvian Negro melodies," (Bendix); 6. "Southern Plantation Songs," (L. Conterno); 7. Characteristic, "Passing the Cotton Fields," (Clarke); 8. American Sketch, "Down South," (Middleton).

PLAGUE OF RABIES BELIEVED STOPPED

No more cases of rabies have been reported to the Orange county health department since the small police puppy bit seven residents of Santa Ana several weeks ago, it was learned today. All dogs in the neighborhood were tied up to be watched for any sign of rabies, which did not develop, according to W. W. Chandler, chief sanitary inspector.

All seven of the persons who were bitten by the animal are taking the Pasteur treatment for the prevention of rabies, and will have finished the treatments in the next few days, it was reported.

Two small children have been bitten by monkeys during the month, it was learned today. The health department warns children against sticking their fingers through cages containing monkeys, as one child was severely bitten through the finger by doing this. The other child was bitten while attempting to pet a monkey, it was said.

Breakfast Club Entertained With Nature Lecture

Nature study and sleight of hand were combined to provide unusual entertainment this morning, when members of the Santa Ana Breakfast club met for their weekly session at Ketner's cafe. Floyd Stewart, magician, entertainer, and member of the Breakfast club was in charge of the program.

Members of the club voted to have the secretary send Mayor John Knox a letter of condolence on the recent death of his brother.

Taking charge of the program after the regular session with "ham and—," Stewart performed a series of sleight-of-hand tricks that amazed and amused his fellow club members, before going into the educational part of the entertainment.

During his lecture on freaks of nature, Stewart was assisted by Barney Koster, Guy Gilbert, Edward Cochems, Bruce Switzler and C. S. Skirvin, who helped him with the exhibition of specimens collected at various times and upon which he talked, describing their habits, where found and purpose in the scheme of nature. Some of the specimens exhibited are, according to Stewart, extremely rare and very valuable to collectors and nature students.

Local Queen Esther Member Accorded Honors

To Miss Helen Wiesseman, daughter of Mrs. F. W. Wiesseman, 2411 North Park boulevard, has been accorded the honor of being crowned queen of the annual Queen Esther camp which opened at Pacific Palisades last Saturday. The honor is accorded to that member whose record shows the highest number of points for service during the year, and Miss Wiesseman led all her opponents, thus winning the distinction for the Queen Esther girls of the Santa Ana First Methodist Episcopal church.

There were many members of the local society present Saturday when the camp had its formal opening, and all enjoyed the beautiful coronation ceremonies. Nearly 25 girls took part in the service which is an impressive ritual depicting the Bible story of Queen Esther. Mrs. Gussie May Coryell, conference superintendent of young people, had prominent part as did Miss May Robinson of Orange. The entrance of the queen in a regal robe of crimson and ermine, accompanied by two train-bearers, was heralded by the royal bugler.

Between 180 and 200 girls are registered this year at the camp and include those from California as far north as Fresno and also from Arizona. Those from Santa Ana are Miss Helen Wiesseman, retiring president of the local group; Miss Jeanette Lutes, president-elect; the Misses Margaret Guthrie, Florence Warmer, Louetta Vail, Jeanette Reinhardt, Katherine Budd, Ruth Budd, Isabel McCormac, Genevieve Glover, Jessie Faires and Mary Mendenhall.

The camp is under the direction of young peoples' leaders from the Women's Home Missionary society of the Methodist Episcopal church. The dean of camp for this year is Mrs. Gussie Mae Coryell of Pasadena. Other leaders are Mrs. Daniel Dundas of Bardsdale, Mrs. DuBois, head of the department of dramatics of the San Francisco Training school, and young people's secretaries from various districts.

Devotional periods, study of methods for conducting circles and recreation are included in the program of the camp. Each tent has accommodations for four or five girls and everyone is anticipating a wonderful time.

Those attending the Saturday evening program from here were Mrs. F. W. Weisseman, Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Lutes, Miss Ethel Coffman, Miss Mary Coffman and Harold Lutes.

Miscellaneous Shower Given in Park for Miss Waggoner

Hewes park, with its lovely gardening and its palm-thatched summer house, was rendezvous on Tuesday night for members of the Meta Adelphon class of the First Christian Sunday school, who met for a picnic supper planned to compliment one of their number, Miss Margaret E. Waggoner, so soon to wed Wilbert A. Hadley.

The various delicious dishes of the picnic menu were arranged on the tables in the summer house, and everyone gathered round to enjoy the supper. At its close the teacher of the class, Mrs. Clyde Morrison, suggested a special game for which the table must be cleared, and when Miss Waggoner was seated, intent upon joining in the "game," she was presented with the array of packages brought by her sister members, and which proved to be a miscellaneous assortment of lovely articles for use in her future home.

After the gifts had been examined and admired, the remainder of the evening was devoted to miniature golf on the excellent course of Hewes park, and Mrs. James Coulson proved the most proficient player.

Sharing the happy evening with the honoree, Miss Waggoner, were Mrs. Morrison, class teacher, and the Misses Marie Rash, Phyllis O'Connor, Sarah Love, Marguerite Thompson, Beulah Dudgeon, Maude Williams, Geneva Sweetser, Mary Arnold, Mildrod Piatt, Ruth Juhlin, Elsiebell Hurd, Mildred Paul, Gretchen Frisbie, Willetta Bozell, Lina Rosenbaum, Mrs. Charles E. Waggoner, mother of the honoree, Mrs. Jack Kahler, her sister and formerly Miss Glenda Mae Waggoner, Mrs. James Coulson and Mrs. Wilmer Crawford.

Eastern Guests Renew Old Friendships At Reception

One of the pleasant affairs for the Rev. Mr. and Mrs. W. L. C. Samson of Pittsburgh, Pa., was a reception of last Monday afternoon in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Will J. Lindsay at 801 East Third street. Colorful and fragrant sweet peas and maidenhair fern decorated one of the rooms while bright hued zinnias decked another room.

About 40 old-time friends of the former pastor and his wife attended the reception and renewed the early bonds of friendship. The afternoon passed very quickly while chatting about the time when the Rev. Mr. Samson was pastor of the United Presbyterian church 17 years ago when the church edifice was built.

The serving of fruit punch and cakes was a pleasant interlude in the happy afternoon.

The Samsons will terminate their visit here this week and then will go to Los Angeles for a week and from there to Iowa and then home to Pittsburgh, carrying with them extremely pleasant memories of their old-time associates.

The group included Mrs. F. L. Among the pleasantest affairs planned by the hostess for the entertainment of her friends was a picnic at Lake Arrowhead on Tuesday, when the whole party motored to that favorite summer resort. The mountain rains were unexpected entertainment and made the air delightfully cool and invigorating.

Irvine Bride-elect Is Pretty Honoree at Gift Shower

One of the charming events of the past week was the miscellaneous shower honoring Miss Cecyl Paulyne Parham, lovely daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Parham of the Irvine-Lambert ranch, who has announced her engagement and early autumn wedding to Levi Sears, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Sears of the San Joaquin fruit ranch. The announcement was the culmination of a Tustin high school romance, the young people both graduating from that school with the class of 1929.

The San Joaquin auditorium was the scene of the pleasant courtesy extended the bride-elect, and Mrs. J. A. Ross, Mrs. Hurley Sears, Mrs. W. Tidball, Mrs. Sim. Draper, Mrs. E. Sears and Mrs. Claude Parham formed the hostess group. They had decorated the auditorium in yellow, using baskets of zinnias throughout the big room. The charming effect was centered in a long table laden with bowls of golden blossoms arranged under a swaying wedding bell.

Tables were placed here and there for bridge but presently cards were laid aside and Miss Parham was asked to take the place of honor beneath the wedding bell. Then as Mrs. Edward Richards played Lohengrin's Wedding March, two cunning children, Little Miss Wilva Yarbrough and Master Willard Bristow, dressed as bride and groom, entered the room drawing a small wagon with a miniature yellow bungalow. This little "honeymoon house" was filled to overflowing with packages to be opened by the honor guest who found delightful articles for her future home.

At the refreshment hour each guest received a favor of a small yellow umbrella when wedding bell centered ices, punch and wafers were served. The six hostesses were assisted by the Misses Wilda Kellams, Betty Boosey, Barbara Lambert and Ardath Parsons, whose dainty flower-like frocks added to the color and charm of the scene.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

W. C. T. U. night will be observed tomorrow night at 7:30 o'clock in the John Brown tabernacle on South Broadway for Santa Ana members and for those in neighboring cities.

Piratical Group Meets To Pay Tribute to Bride-to-Be

Picturesquely garbed pirates grouped around a blazing bonfire as they played cards for high stakes, with the moon shining between cloud rifts on splashing waves, leaping flames and the "bloodthirsty crew", was the unique idea put into effect last night when Miss Wilma Moehrl entertained in compliment to Miss Vena Bell Bryant, charming fiance of John Lutz, jr.

The summer home of Miss Moehrl's parents at Newport was the scene of the festivity, and nothing seemed lacking to make the event one of much original entertainment. Bridge was played for a short time, then yielded place to an amusing contest of fashioning pirate costumes from crepe paper. Then modeling (with chewing gum) was introduced, and Miss Louise Bryant was awarded a charming little gift for her skill.

Then came the most thrilling moment of the evening, when the "pirates" joined in true buccaneer fashion in searching for the hidden treasure. The search led through every room and finally to the second floor where Mrs. Clyde Martin was first to discover the big pirate chest and its treasure trove. To Mrs. Martin was awarded a box of candy, while the treasure chest was turned over to Miss Bryant, who found that she was to receive its contents of lovely miscellaneous gifts.

The whole affair was carried out in true pirate fashion with black and orange invitations and refreshments of ice cream moulded in black and orange ships and orangeade. The hostess was assisted in serving by her sister, Miss Kathryn Moehrl.

"Buccaneers" joining in the affair were the honoree, Miss Bryant, Mrs. Albert Dresser, Miss Dorothy Dresser, Mrs. Lee Bryant, Mrs. John Lutz, Miss Beulah Dudgeon, Mrs. Clyde Martin, Miss Ruby Sumar, Miss Hattie Bell Wall, Miss Dorothy Lutz, Miss Emma Wall, Miss Louise Proctor, Miss Louise Bryant, Miss Charlena Swartz, Mrs. William Fritcher and the hostess, Miss Moehrl and her sister, Miss Kathryn Moehrl, and Mr. and Mrs. George Moehrl.

Growing Puppies and Kittens

It's a far cry from jam making, feeding of children and starving of fat ladies, to growing puppies and kittens, but I feel sure that a great many readers of this column have pets and will be interested in what I have to tell you about my own.

A six-week police pup and a black Persian kitten of the same tender age came to live at our house some weeks ago. The pup has been somewhat of a trial, but the kitten is a joy . . . a little old-fashioned lady . . . dainty and precise.

But for all the pup's nonsense he is loads of fun and interesting to train. My first fault was in feeding him too much. He got sick, very sick, just as promptly, and medical opinion had to be resorted to. A dose of castor oil was prescribed, liquid diet and rest. Presently he got well and sufficiently frisky to wreck a few square feet of garden.

Getting him to eat vegetables has been a problem until a friend told me how she made her dog eat them and like 'em. She buys hamburger (horse-meat hamburger when it can be bought) and makes it into a meat loaf with ground vegetables.

For about three pounds of meat she uses a small head of cabbage, half as much of carrots and onions and one-fourth as much raw potato. All the vegetables are run through the food chopper, mixed with the meat, a beaten egg used to bind it, packed into bread tins and baked. This provides a perfect dog and cat ration at just a fraction of the cost of a commercial variety.

To keep your dog well, give him a clove of garlic once a week. Wrap it in a piece of his meat loaf and it slips down like a pill.

TODAY'S RECIPE

Curried Eggs (for 4)
6 eggs, hard boiled and cooled
2 cups milk, scalded
3 tablespoons flour
5 tablespoons butter
3 tart apples, diced
1 large onion, diced
Cayenne, salt, pepper
1 teaspoon sugar
1 or more tablespoons imported curry powder

First, a word of caution about the kind of curry powder used. Do not let your grocer tell you that a domestic grade is "just as good" as the imported curry. It is not and is an abomination and a waster of good material. A bottle of curry powder lasts a long time; buy the best.

• • •

Use 3 tablespoons of the butter to gently saute the diced onion and apple to a soft paste. When they are well cooked add the curry powder to them and let simmer until ready to add to the cream sauce. The amount used will depend on individual tastes—a tablespoonful is a good amount for the uninitiate to use the first time.

Blend the flour and remaining butter together, add the hot milk—slowly—and cook into a smooth sauce. Keep it in a double boiler, add the sauted apple and onion, stir well, then add the amount of seasoning your taste says is right. Curry sauces should be quite tangy and hot. Quarter the cold cooked eggs, fold into the sauce and keep warm until ready to serve.

For four people cook almost two cups of rice e(uncooked measure). Drop into rapidly boiling water, salted, and cook until a grain will mash between the fingers. Turn into a colander and rinse under running hot water, then put back to dry out in the edge of the oven. Turn the rice onto a big platter, press back with a spoon to make walls, put the curried eggs in the center, allowing the sauce to run over the rice if it wishes to. Serve with Chutney sauce.

• • •

The rice and curried eggs have the respectable total of almost 2300 calories. They are a good combination of carbohydrates and proteins. The dish takes the place of meat and potatoes for luncheon or dinner. Serve a crisp green salad for its digestive aid, and perhaps green string beans for vegetable.

Friday we will have a recipe for candying figs, sent in by a reader. Editorially and individually, we thank her.

UNTOLD TORTURE FROM ECZEMA

Ended quickly by Resinol

"For three months I suffered torture from "weeping eczema," and the many different remedies I tried only gave me slight temporary relief. Finally I decided to try Resinol Ointment. After the first application the itching was relieved and after three days' treatment the whole affected surface was entirely healed. In view of what I had suffered it seems nothing short of a miracle. (Signed)—Ella Moakley, 61 Mt. Auburn St., Watertown, Mass.

The quickness with which Resinol acts in relieving eczema, chafing, rashes, piles, sores, etc. is amazing. Why don't you try it? At all druggists. For free sample, write Resinol, Dept. 87, Baltimore, Md.

'FATHER'S SON' IS WELL RECEIVED

The large audience at Walker's State theater last night at the first showing of First National's screen version of the Booth Tarkington story, "Father's Son," was greeted with applause as spontaneous as if the audience had by some strange magic reverted to the age of the boy-hero of the play.

"Father's Son" is presented by a capable cast, headed by the clever child actor, Leon Janney, who did such remarkable work in "Courage" "Old English" and "The Doorway to Hell." Irene Rich is the wistfully lovely mother who tries to protect the boy from the stern father who is portrayed by Lewis Stone as he only can play it.

HERE'S NEW STAR

"SECRET CALL" OPENS FRIDAY AT WEST COAST

A girl who lived only for revenge. A girl who banished love in order to get even, who surrendered everything so that the hatred in her heart could be satisfied—this is the story of "The Secret Call," which comes to the Fox West Coast theater tomorrow.

Richard Arlen and Peggy Shannon have the leading roles in the production, while Ned Sparks furnishes dry humor that stands out in the dialogue like a lighthouse in a storm.

The production of "The Secret Call" is Paramount's latest release and is said to be one of the most interesting stories brought to the screen recently.

The plot concerns a girl whose father was "framed" by a political ring. She is a telephone operator in a big hotel where the gang has headquarters and every minute on duty she is trying to find the clew which will lead to her revenge.

Persons hard of hearing are requested to ask attendants at the theater for the sets. These clamp over the ears and are connected to a plug at the base of the seat. The deaf and those who have difficulty in hearing then hear perfectly, it is said.

The theater has been equipped with the devices for some time, but new improvements have been added which greatly enhance the value of the sets to the patrons, it is said.

MURDER FILM OPENS TODAY AT BROADWAY

Creeps and shivers are in store for those who attend "Murder by the Clock," Paramount's mystery-thriller booked as the main feature at the Fox Broadway theater, opening today.

This story, based on the mystery novel of the same name by Rufus King, a big selling book of the past season, tells the story of the unhappy marriage of a young man who is murdered twice in a single evening. Several hours after he is found dead in his home he is alive again, due to the reviving effects of adrenalin treatments given by the family doctor. Some minutes after he has regained life—and just as he is about to tell who killed him—he is slain for the second and final time. The web of events woven around this spine-tingling double demise forms an hour's entertainment that holds audiences frozen with intense interest.

Members of the cast include William Boyd, Lilyan Tashman, Regis Toomey and Sally O'Neil.

'DADDY LONG LEGS' ENDS RUN TODAY

Final showing of "Daddy Long Legs," Janet Gaynor's latest and most successful picture, which was returned to the Fox West Coast theater by popular demand, will be shown tonight.

As predicted, the picture has enjoyed unusual patronage on its re-run in Santa Ana, the matinee and evening performances of yesterday being unusually well attended.

THE TINYMITES

STORY by HAL COCHRAN — PICTURES by KNICK

REG. U. S. PAT. OFF.

The ukulele player strummed and shortly all the Tinies hummed a sweet Hawaiian number that was pretty as could be. The Travel Man found out real soon that all of them could keep in tune. "I must admit you Tinymites are pretty good," said he.

The girl, with very graceful sway, danced 'round. And then they heard her say, "I think I'll have to stop for now. I'm really quite tired out. One of you little lads should try to dance a little bit and I will gladly try to tell you what our dance is all about."

"Gee, thanks!" said Clowny, "but I guess we'd only make the dance a mess. But I will do a jig for you. I'm pretty good at that." Then Carpy cried "Go right ahead! I'm sure a jig will do, instead. Be careful that you stay upon your feet and don't fall flat."

Once more the ukulele strummed and while the other Tinies hummed brave Clowny did a clever jig that tickled everyone. When he was through the girl clapped loud and said, "Of you I'm very proud! Your jig was very clever and to watch was heaps of fun."

The girl soon left and Scouty said, "I'd like to rest my weary head right here upon the cooling sand. Let's sleep out here tonight. Perhaps that ukulele man will play some nice tunes, if he can. 'Twould be a very lovely thing, beneath the bright moonlight."

The Travel Man agreed 'twould be a restful spot, so promptly he arranged to have the ukulele player entertain. The Tinymites flopped on the ground and soon they all were sleeping sound. The Travel Man said, "My, that's fine. Your tunes were not in vain."

2. Change but one letter at a time and be sure the word you have used is one in good usage.

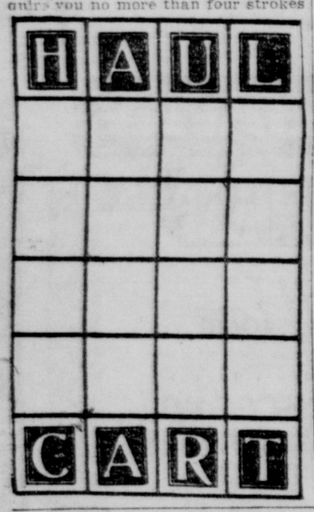

3. The order of the letters cannot be changed.

HAUL to CART—It should require you no more than four strokes to HAUL your CART over this letter links hole.

Contract For Buena Park Building Awarded Soon

TEARING DOWN OF CLUBHOUSE STARTED TODAY

BUENA PARK, July 30.—Work started today on the tearing down of the old club house of the Buena Park Woman's club to make room for the new building, contract for which will be let in the near future.

Plans for the new club house are being prepared by Edward W. Thurman of Buena Park, whose mother, Mrs. E. E. Thurman, has been a member of the club for 25 years.

The new structure will be of Spanish design, with tile roof, and will be built of stucco. The building will be 42 feet by 88 feet and will include an auditorium 28 feet by 72 feet with lounging room, stage, dressing rooms, kitchen, ladies' vanity room, men's smoking room and office. A patio on the side of the building is being arranged.

The trustees of the Woman's club comprise the building committee. Trustees are Mrs. L. T. Wilsey, Mrs. Caryl B. Snyder, Mrs. H. E. Warren, Mrs. H. F. Beidleman, Mrs. George Trapp, Mrs. Edward Marxen and Mrs. Keith Morse. Mrs. Wilsey is chairman of the committee and Mrs. Warren, secretary.

Preceeds of the dahlia show sponsored by the club for several years, Kiwanis club dinner and from membership donations have provided funds amounting to $2000 and the property is free of indebtedness. A private loan for the amount needed for the building program is being arranged. No solicitation for funds will be made, although donations will be accepted.

Girl Worries Over Life Saving Cost

LAGUNA BEACH, July 30.—It's lucky for Mana Lou Hamilton, possibly Scotch, that life saving is free.

Miss Hamilton, 9, got beyond her depth near the pier and was in distress. Robert Black, 15, plunged from the pier to her rescue, assisted by S. C. Kaiser in bringing the girl to shore.

When the first aid crew of the fire department arrived, the young woman revived enough to note the apparatus being used. Then her frugality came to her rescue, making first aid almost unneeded.

"My daddy won't pay any doctor bills," she informed the first aid crew as it got ready to restore regular breathing to her.

EVELYN HARVEY, C. L. HITCHCOCK MARRY IN BREA

BREA, July 30.—A leafy bower in the garden of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Harvey, 234 South Madrona, last night formed the setting for the wedding of their daughter, Miss Evelyn Louise Harvey, to C. L. Hitchcock, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Hitchcock of the Stearns lease.

A prelude of love ballads was played by an orchestra from the Ramona Mulligan school of music in Anaheim and Miss Genelle Bagley, a cousin of the bride, sang "The Indian Love Song," by Cadman, and "Thou Art Mine All," by Bradsky. Doris Forbes delighted with clever whistling numbers, after which James Kewish played Lohengrin's wedding march as the wedding party came from the house to take their places before the Rev. George F. Tinsley, pastor of the Christian church of Fullerton. The single ring ceremony was read at 8:30 o'clock.

The bride was given by her father and was lovely in a white crepe chiffon gown, over which fell the filmy folds of a rare old veil, a possession of the family for more than a hundred years. A necklace and bracelet, also family heirlooms, were her only ornaments. She carried apricot roses, gardenias and sweet peas.

Attending her as matron of honor was the groom's niece, Mrs. John Daugherty, wearing pale blue satin. Bridesmaids were Virginia Bagley, wearing white chiffon over coral satin; Miss Tomiko Dobashi, in pink crepe chiffon; Miss Dorothy Forbes and Mrs. John Voss, both wearing apricot satin gowns. Dr. Phillip Munz of Claremont assisted the groom as best man and Horace Blair ushered the guests.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Hitchcock are graduates of Fullerton Junior college and Pomona college, the groom also recently graduating from the Washington university at St. Louis, where he secured his degree as a doctor of philosophy. They will make their home in Claremont, the groom having been engaged to teach botany in Pomona college.

The guest list included the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Hitchcock, and daughter, Miss Agnes; Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Powell, Mr. and Mrs. John Daugherty, Mr. and Mrs. C. R. McClure, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Hay, Billie and Helen Hay, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Schwetzer, Mr. and Mrs. James Forbes and daughters, Dorothy and Doris, Mr. and Mrs. George Brown, Tom Ford, Morrison Hunt, Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Sammans and Caroline Sammons, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bates, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Sutphen and Raymond Sutphen, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Fanning, Carl and Catherine Fanning, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Crosbie, Brea; Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Harvey, Mr. and Mrs. Will Harvey, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Harvey, Mr. and Franklin Grouard, Santa Ana; Mr. and Mrs. Newell Christensen, Anaheim; Mr. and Mrs. J. Dobashi and daughter, Tomiko, Yorba Linda; Mr. and Mrs. Louis Plummer, Isabel and Margaret, Mr. and Mrs. Fred West, Mr. and Mrs. Horace Blair.

NEWPORT BEACH PLANS VOTE ON METROPOLITAN DISTRICT; NEW WATER SYSTEM IN USE

NEWPORT BEACH, July 30.—Newport Beach now has city water among the best tasting as well as the best quality in Southern California, following the installation of a new aeration system at the main reservoir of the water system, northwest of the city limits.

The aeration plant was installed on the recommendation and under the supervision of R. L. Patterson, city engineer and water superintendent. The aeration process is one whereby the water is sprayed by the air, and it rids the water of certain odors and tastes which makes is disagreeable to some users.

Newport Beach water formerly had a sulphur taste, which, while healthful, was not liked by some visitors. The new aeration process has taken out this and made the water very palatable. The Newport Beach water is also softer than the average, Patterson says.

This city is now taking steps whereby it may vote soon on the question of whether or not to join the Metropolitan Water district. The city council has made inquiries of the M. W. D. officials, while the Newport Harbor Chamber of Commerce has already gone on record as favoring the city's joining the district. This action followed an exhaustive study and report by H. L. Sherman, a chamber director and chairman of its water committee.

The reason for this action regarding the Metropolitan Water district, Paterson said, is that the city is looking ahead. Its present water supply is ample and of excellent quality and taste, but the community is growing rapidly and membership in the Metropolitan Water district is regarded as an insurance of a larger water supply later.

GAS WAR HIT BY PLACENTIA C. C. SPEAKERS

PLACENTIA, July 30.—Taking a stand with other organizations and individuals who are interested in stabilizing the oil industry, the Placentia Chamber of Commerce yesterday passed a resolution urging "the people of this state to refuse to patronize any elements which seek to disrupt conditions by a price-cutting program."

Warren Bradford spoke on the subject, as did Fred Valle. Bradford stated that 30,000 men had been laid off in the oil business, that many concerns were broke and in the hands of receivers and that others would go the same way if the price of gasoline could not be held to at least 16 cents a gallon. Even then, said Bradford, conditions would not go back to where they were before, as the oil industry is faced with the problem of over-production as is nearly every other business today.

Valle brought out the necessity for the world to revise its views on economics, stating that we are on the edge of a new era when the average man will not have to spend most of his time gaining the necessities of life, and that the solving of the problems of production and distribution are the great questions today.

H. H. Hale, Weston M. Smith and S. James Tuffree were others who expressed their opinions in regard to the situation.

The Rev. D. J. Brigham gave an interesting talk on Alaska where he studied mission work and its results, and told of agriculture and gold mining.

Frank Rospaw was appointed delegate to attend the hearing of the Motor Transit next Monday, when the railroad commission will decide on the appeal of the stage company to discontinue bus service east from Placentia to Atwood and Yorba Linda.

CONTRACTS LET BY FULLERTON SCHOOL BOARD

FULLERTON, July 30.—Letting of contracts for insurance and school supplies occupied Fullerton Union High school trustees Tuesday afternoon in the office of Louis E. Plummer, principal.

Fire insurance on automobiles went to the Dan O'Hanlon agency. Commercial printing for the school will be distributed throughout the district job shops and no commercial work will be done in the high school shop next year, it was decided.

All bids on towels were refused and new bids will be asked. Purchase of athletic supplies from a number of concerns on bids was approved, the supplies being the usual new materials and replacements for physical education work.

Miss Harriett Gerritt, of Los Angeles, was employed as a new instructor in the home economics department of the high school.

Principal Plummer reported on revenue for the local district junior college from outside sources. Los Angeles county has been billed for $25,103.24; Orange county, outside the school district, $27,646.78; Riverside county, $939.61; Imperial county, $317.19 and San Diego county, $1,199.95, for students attending from these districts.

DEATH VALLEY FACTS TOLD AT CLUB SESSION

FULLERTON, July 30.—"Although Death valley is usually associated with a hot climate, it is much cooler than in southern California during many parts of the year," Dr P. H. Mattner of the Hacienda Country club told members of the Fullerton 20-30 club last night in McFarland's cafe, in an address on the subject of "Death Valley."

Dr. Mattner declared that due to many contradictory and untrue stories, Death valley has come to have an evil reputation, when as a matter of fact it is a very beautiful spot during many months of the year. He explained that while it is rumored that the valley is barren of water, a person may start out from any point and encounter water within 15 miles.

Alvin Blackford, program chairman, introduced the speaker. He also introduced Charles Waits, who entertained with musical numbers on the piano.

Rankin Bailey is program chairman for next week. Sam Adams was appointed tail twister to take the place of Walter Stark, who has moved from town.

OIL BUSINESS NEEDS CONTROL SAYS SPEAKER

NEWPORT BEACH, July 30.—Hinting that he was in favor of some kind of state regulation for the oil industry of California, Willis E. Osborn, president of the Huntington Beach chamber of commerce, addressed the Newport Harbor Service club at its noon luncheon yesterday at the Twin Palms Inn.

Osborn said he was one of those who attended the dinner meeting held in Santa Ana last week, where many prominent civic leaders of Orange county heard talks of conditions in the oil industry and pledged themselves by resolution to do all in their power to stabilize gasoline prices and to oppose wild price cutting.

He was not sure that that was the proper remedy for the condition Osborn said, and he also doubted if all the statements being made by or on behalf of the major oil companies were true. He told of cases in the Huntington Beach field, in which he said $16,000,000 had been lost, where men were working for $2 a day cash, and more "if oil were found." One man he knew had $2,000 coming to him on such a working contract as that.

Arthur W. Frost, district manager of the Southern California Edison company and a director of the Huntington Beach chamber, told a little of the early history of that company, for which he began to work in 1902 in Pasadena at $35 a month, and his wages were cut even below that at various times.

Frost said that an attorney in Pasadena named Wright conceived the idea of selling electricity to the harbor then proposed at San Pedro, but when he was told there "never would be a harbor there" he moved his little plant to Sixteenth and Hoover, then outside the city limits of Los Angeles. His franchise was later sold for $150, which was the beginning of the Southern California Edison company. The first electric light in Los Angeles was as late as 1890, he said.

WHEAT—Northwest and Canadian news continues bullish but had little effect other than possibly to check selling to some extent. The heavy cables, weakness at Winnipeg, the renewal of the export movement from Russia with shipments of 912,000 bu. for the week—together with a sluggish export trade and easier basis at teh Gulf due to lack of demand were all depressing influences. The crop news and the diminishing of winter wheat in the southwest and west failed to excite much influence. Argentine shipments were estimated at 1,286,000 bu. deliveries today 193,000 bu. Receipts were 700 sars estimated and primary run was 3,539,000 bu. against 4,103,000 bu. a year ago. Minneapolis stocks decreased 600,000 bu. for five days. Liverpool closed quiet, ⅝c lower. The weather map showed showers in Northern Alberta and a little precipitation in our northwest—but nothing general or heavy. Some northwest houses estimate a spring wheat crop in the four states of 110,000,000 bu. Premature ripening is likely to cut the Canadian yield still more. At this level and with all the potential bullish factors likely to be operative later—favor buying side on the setbacks.

NEW YORK BONDS

NEW YORK, July 30.—(UP)—Bonds on the stock exchange moved irregularly today in moderate turnover. Firming up in Chilean loans was a feature of the foreign list rower range and Brazilians resumed where Germans were mixed in a narrtheir decline. Domestic issues were featured by weakness in Nickel Plate issues, which broke to new lows.

Chile 5½s of 1945 spurted 4¼ points to 62¾, and held most of the gainse. Others of the group made smaller gains.

Weakness in Brazilian bonds that caused breaks ranging to more than 4 points and further selling in Argentine issues were based on expectation of passing of bond interest by both countries in the near future. Peruvian issues were again in trouble, the 7s coming within a point of their record low at 26, off 5½ points.

German government issues eased fractionally, while Berlin city issues lost 1 to 2 points. German industrials advanced with Ilseder Steel 6s up 3¼ points at 50. Polish and Roumanian issues declined.

NEW YORK CURB

NEW YORK, July 30.—(UP)—The curb market continued irregular to lower levels today as representative shares in all sections of the list drifted irregularly downward in listless trading.

After an early display of steadiness, principal utility stocks encountered further selling and reacted moderately under leadership of American Gas and Electric, off 1¼ points from previous closing levels. Electric Bond and Share ruled steady against the trend in this category and an early fractional advance was maintained in these shares.

Trading in Petroleum shares was featured by a 2 point spurt in Gulf Oil of Pennsylvania. Vacuum Oil firmed up ⅝ point, while small recessions took place in Cities Service and Standard of Indiana.

Specialties with a thin market were unusually quiet with prices generally lower. Aluminum Company of America fell 4½ points, smaller losses being recorded in Mead Johnson and Parker Rust Proof.

Motors ruled dull and steady, while investment trust leaders eased slightly.

The stock market today was rather soft in the early hours of the session—there being no news or coming events to rouse interest excpt the Bethlhem tSel dividend meeting which is due to take place after the market closes. It seems to be generally agreed that a downward revision will be ordered. Around midday the market, especially the steel shares roused itself in response to the reports of further increase in operations at Youngstown. The recovered levels were held with some interruption in the last hour but just before the clos a sizeable rally took place causing the leading issues to close on the ighs of the day with net gains of from a fraction to a full point.

HARMONY AND PROGRESS

Prime importance should be attached to a group of resolutions in which the Associated Chambers of Commerce and the Orange County Coast Association recently concurred. This for two reasons. First because the subject of the resolutions was the vital one of water and second because of the spirit expressed particularly through two of the resolutions.

The chief two of these resolutions called attention to the absolute necessity for united action on the matter of water and a comprehensive plan such as is necessary to insure the future of the county cannot be installed said one of these resolutions by any "group of individuals or water companies or any other body less than the entire county." The second of these important resolutions was in the same tenor. Emphasis was placed on the necessity for a spirit of harmony and co-operation if undertakings which will insure the county against drouth in the future are to be successful.

The spirit expressed in these resolutions is to be highly commended. It has important bearing on the success of whatever projects are undertaken, and must be undertaken, in Orange county. With the necessity for unity and harmony recognized these groups merit congratulation for actual progress.

In a third of the eight resolutions passed by the Orange County Coast Association, it was suggested that the Board of Supervisors employ expert legal advice on the question of water conservation and flood control.

This unquestionably would be a good thing to do, in fact, it is almost unnecessary to suggest it. But we would like to suggest that the man who should do the selection of the expert counsel is the District Attorney, the regular legal adviser of the Board of Supervisors. The District Attorney, as a lawyer knows the attorneys who are particularly well qualified in their various lines, and he knows it is not only unethical, but positively against common sense to employ an attorney for the county who is a regularly employed counsel for those who might be litigants with the county and whose interests under certain circumstances were antagonistic on the very subject matter to be considered.

"No man can serve two masters." No lawyer can serve two clients whose interests conflict. It would save the county to get a lawyer whose interests are entirely with his client,—the county. The county thereby will not only be properly guided but can be saved possibly thousands of dollars, which otherwise would be lost, through advice that was colored and warped, if not entirely diametrically opposed to the county's interest, by the interest that the lawyer had in his regular client. It is unethical for lawyers to attempt to so serve, and the Board of Supervisors can well avoid this serious difficulty.

We believe the county would have been saved a vast amount of money and all the expenses of a needless election if in the former instance legal counsel had been employed that was freed from any entangling alliances with those whose selfish personal interests were out of harmony with the interests of the county as a whole.

The past is past. But let us avoid the same pitfalls in the future. We are confident that the District Attorney who is employed by the county to look after the interests of the county can well advise in this matter. In fact, by going through the natural course, the best counsel could be secured, and much of the work done by the District Attorney's office at a real saving in expense, and actually as good, if not better expert counsel secured.

INDIVIDUAL PHILOSOPHIES OF LIFE

Each man has his own philosophy of life. Sometimes he is conscious of it after he has gotten his background of experience; more often he is unconscious of it. It grows up inevitably out of individual experience. The great philosopher who is able to gather up the totality of human experience may present us with a general philosophy of life. It is a sort of a composite growing out of humanity's general experience. As such it may be of more value to the race as a whole than to any one individual. But an intelligent individual's philosophy of life is illuminating not only of the personality holding that philosophy, but may be of use to other individuals similarly placed or constituted.

It is this which gives interest and value to a recent book on "Living Philosophies" a symposium by a group of twenty-two of the best known scientists and literary men of the world. In a brief editorial it is impossible to give any adequate summary of the contents of a book like this. Experiences and attitudes are so completely determined by differing personalities that no consensus of viewpoint is possible. Einstein and Bertrand Russell, Theodore Dreiser and Hillaire Belloc, Mencken and Millikan have so little in common that any philosophy of life held by the other is utterly irreconcilable.

But it is just this that gives a value to a symposium like this. It shows that unity of life is not to be found except in those spheres of conduct or endeavor where we all meet. Above all things there must be a unity where man stands beside man and views the same landscape. To find this higher sphere has been the task of the great philosopher, and what he has found himself up against is just what a book like this reveals. In religion, in social ethics, in economic creeds, it is all the same thing. The lesser, the personal, and the limited, obscure the higher, the nobler, and the universal. That is especially illustrated in the current expression of the Christian religion. How it is possible to gather the divisive tenets of the scores of sects into which Christianity is divided, from the plain teachings of its founder baffles only the unthinking. The thoughtful and discerning readily see that individuals and groups have read their own religious philosophies into the teachings of Jesus, instead of honestly trying to find what was really primary and eternal in his spirit and teachings.

This book on "individual philosophies" reveals one thing, and that is that an individual philosophy of life has significance only for the individual holding it, and not for the whole of mankind, except as that individual philosophy deals with universals.

The reason so many triangle complications arise may be due to the fact that two can live as cheaply as one.

WHERE REDS ARE NOT A MENACE

A correspondent to the New York Times recently wrote that in Denmark no one was afraid of Reds. A short time ago a Red went into the lower house of Parliament and fired a gun. But, says the correspondent, the honorable members of Parliament kept on sleeping.

We should like to commend the behaviour of the members of the Danish Parliament to the Hon. Hamilton Fish and the members of his commission who have smelt Bolshevism on every unwashed hand.

"Some Lemon Envelopes, Please"

Christian Science Monitor

When one examines the architecture of a postage stamp he notes that the "rear elevation" displays a yellowish substance. It bears the somewhat technical and dignified name of dextrin. Dextrin is an outstanding example of loyalty and affection in all of its attachments. While the "front elevation" displays at different times and issues the faces of famous men, dextrin always has been the exclusive occupant of the rear.

Dextrin is manufactured from the starch of the tropical cassava plant and the United States alone imports annually several million dollars' worth of it. And now the Department of Agriculture is in search of a native product that will develop a tasteless starch. The flavor of the starch of the cassava plant is negligible, and the most delicate tastes are said to find it quite inoffensive. Thus far the sweet potato is said to afford some prospects of supplying the qualities demanded from the rear tenants of the various denominations of postage stamps. Incidentally, the development of a domestic starch for this use would mean another source of farm relief.

But why confine experiments to production of a tasteless starch? In these days of spinach ice cream and carrot candy, what appears to be needed is a more tasty postage stamp. Undoubtedly there are a lot of vegetables that would produce starches of splendid adhesive qualities and striking flavors. But everybody has his or her special delight in the matter of flavor, and resort well may be taken to the use of artificial flavors for the starches federal chemists may be able to develop. A greater use of postage stamps might be encouraged if one could step to a post office window and ask for ten peppermint and two wintergreen two-cent stamps, five pistacio and three vanilla one-cent stamps, and a bunch of lemon envelopes.

A Mighty Hunter

New York Times

Those who have read Mr. Duguid's "Green Hell" are not surprised to learn in dispatches from the Matto Grosso expedition that Alexander Siemel killed a 300-pound jaguar with a spear and dispatched a puma with an arrow. "The Tiger Man" of that book of adventure is clearly a woodsman and hunter equal to the greatest. He is the spiritual brother of Allan Quatermain and the legatee of Kit Carson. In the old west or in Africa the pioneer hunters would have welcomed Siemel as fit to come to grips with the grizzly and the lion.

Big-game hunting has become de luxe. The hunters go in large expeditions, with beaters and gun-bearers. Sometimes they shoot from buckboards and even from Fords. But to advance, spear in hand, upon a jaguar which dogs have brought to bay calls for a man cast in the heroic mold. Siemel's spear-head was almost twisted off by the beast he killed.

His use of a sixty-pound bow is also the talent of no ordinary man. When Stewart Edward White took up archery, prior to a big-game hunt with bow and arrow, he had made a replica of the longbow and cloth-yard arrow which the English used in the wars of the Black Prince. Many strong men were unable to draw the string. Siemel's weapon is larger and heavier than White's.

This Law Bears Hard on Lazy Alarm Clocks

San Francisco Chronicle

Under a new Wisconsin law, just signed by Governor La Follette, it is a crime punishable by fine and imprisonment for any person in the state to use other than standard time. The miscreant arrested under the law has only one "out." If he tells the court he is sorry he will escape with a fine. But if he glories in his shame and defends his recreant timepiece off to jail he goes.

This should have a wholesome effect on certain alarm clocks habitually slow after the owner has been at a weekend party. Hereafter the fellow who is late at work Monday morning will have to depend for his excuse on blocked street cars or a blowout. Eight thirty is not standard time if the clock in the steeple says eight.

Swell Idea—But He Should Have Copyrighted It

More Truth Than Poetry

By James J. Montague

A NOTE OF ALARM

To dwell in sunny Italy
No more is a delight;
An omelette is hard to get
And cakes are ghastly white.
The chefs once filled with genial cheer
Today are wont to sob
Like broken men, because the hen
Is loafing on her job.

No longer in the Apennines
One hears that cheering racket
Of broken notes from myriad throats,
"Cut! Cut! CUT! Cadacket!"
The hens of Italy have struck;
From bondage they recoil;
Their unborn young shall not be flung
To chefs to fry or boil.

And why all pullets everywhere
In every clime and land
Have been so weak and mild and meek
I cannot understand.
If they had stood up for their rights,
If they had known real pride,
In vain we'd beg to buy an egg
Throughout the countryside.

But now the movement is afoot
It is my firm belief
That there will be for you and me
No mutton, ham or beef.
No more the steer, the sheep, the pig
Their gifts will on us shower
And die to feed the human breed
When once they learn their power.

GREAT OPPORTUNITY

If Schmeling makes as much money out of the championship as some of his predecessors have, maybe he will be able to pay the German debt before the moratorium is out.

NOTHING TO WORRY ABOUT

The hens in Italy have been refusing to lay. But they'll hear from Mr. Mussolini shortly.

Too Much Oil On Troubled Waters

By WILLIAM TRUFANT FOSTER and WADDILL CATCHINGS

As we drove along the coast of California in June, we found gasoline dealers everywhere in a frenzy of price-cutting competition. The object of the game seemed to be to see who could lose the most money. We actually bought good gasoline at a roadside station for two cents a gallon, plus a three cent state tax. The price of the same gasoline in February had been twenty cents.

The trouble, we were told, was "overproduction."

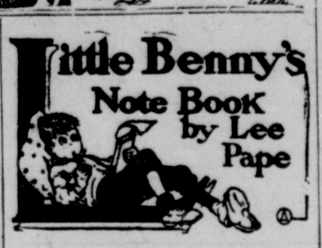

Whereupon we drove through forests of oil derricks at Venice and Long Beach, and looked in vain for derricks that were not working. Everywhere we went, we saw "overproduction" in the making. California oil, like California climate, was being produced twenty-four hours a day.

When we left California, the people were still selling their climate at a profit, but they had lost about 60 millions of dollars through selling their gasoline below cost. Meantime, the market value of twelve oil stocks on the local exchanges had dropped 650 millions of dollars, and 50 small producers had gone into the hands of receivers.

This is a bad record for a state which is known all over the world for the orderly and profitable marketing of fruit through the Citrus Fruit Growers Exchange. The example set by the Exchange is now being followed by the Oil Producers Sales Agency of California. The object of the Agency is to pour less oil upon troubled waters.

Some day we shall discover that a price-cutting war which demoralizes an industry is opposed to public interest. We shall encourage combinations in restraint of waste. We shall change our laws, as far as necessary, in order to promote orderly marketing and the conservation of natural resources.

Me and Sid Hunt each had 4 cents and we each got 4 cakes of chocklit out of the slot machine in frunt of the cigar store and went and sat on my frunt steps to eat them, me saying, Lets eat them slow as anything and then the flavor will last twice as long and we'll get twice as much good out of them.

Sure, thats just what I was going to say, Sid sed. If we eat them slow enough it will be pritty neer just the same thing as having a pound of candy, he sed.

And we started to bite little bits of nibbles off of the corners of each peece and swallow them slow as anything, me saying, O boy this is what I call getting my money's werth, I've had my 4 cents werth of taist alreddy and I've still got all the middles left.

Sure, this is almost like saving money instead of spending it, Sid sed. Good nite here comes Lucky Leroy Shooster, gosh shang the luck, as sure as you have a hunk of candy ,that guy's sure to come around in time to get a bite, I never knew it to fale, he sed.

Well its going to fale this time as far as Im concerned because Im going to hurry up and finish mine before he gets here, he aint going to be lucky this time on my candy, I sed. Im going to quick swallow the rest of mine weather I taist it or not, I sed.

Me too, Sid Hunt sed. And we both quick ate the rest of our peeces without worrying about making the taist last, and Lucky Leroy Shooster came up and he was holding his neck stiff with a rag rapped around it, me saying, Whats a matter with your neck, Lucky? and he sed, I got a boil, the docter says I been eating too much candy, so Im not aloud to eat any more till this goes away, and I dont want to eat any anyways because every time I see a peece of candy it reminds me of this boil and gives me a exter pain.

Me and Sid thinking, Aw heck good nite all that taist wasted for nothing.

Proving you cant keep lucky guys from being lucky.

BEARD'S PLAN FOR AMERICA

Everywhere discussion runs rife about plans for the American future—five-year plans, 10-year plans, 20-year plans!

Much of this discussion evaporates in amiable generalities.

There begin to emerge, however, concrete plans that make good targets for thought, and among these is the five-year plan advanced by Charles A. Beard in the July issue of the Forum.

Here are the nine points in the Beard plan:

1—A national economic council, to be created by the congress or at least authorized by congress, representing the fundamental industries of the nation and charged with their co-ordination.

2—The repeal of the Sherman and Clayton anti-trust acts, so that industry must act in this technological age, but with all industries represented in the national economic council, and others that are becoming highly concentrated, declared public service enterprises to be conducted on the basis of prudent investment and fair returns.

3—A board of strategy and planning charged with the duty of surveying the resources and productive facilities of the nation, forecasting the production of consumptive and capital goods, and allocating production to the end that we may realize the desirable maximum output and raise the standard of living by raising wages and reducing prices.

4—The strengthening of the bureau of standards and, through it, co-ordinating the new overlapping agencies of industrial research and standardizing all essential commodities produced under the guardianship of the national economic council.

5—The organization of each industry, represented in or associated with the national economic council, into a syndicate of affiliated corporations, as a holding company, each syndicate having its own board of strategy and planning to key into the national board, each syndicate made up of regional corporations or divisional corporations or both, with the plants of each corporation operated by corporation managers.

6—The special organization of an agricultural syndicate, charged with the duty of a national venture in intelligent land utilization, and expected to look into the possibilities of corporation farming where the old farming is manifestly obsolete.

7—The special organization of a marketing syndicate to rationalize the national scheme of distribution.

8—The special organization of an exporting and importing syndicate with directive responsibility respecting the getting of the goods we need, the issuance of foreign securities here, and the loans made to other countries.

9—The integration of American diplomacy in terms of the Kellogg pact, adherence to the World Court, co-operation with the economic conferences and council of the League of Nations and cancellation of war debts contingent on the reduction of the world's armed forces to a police basis.

I should like to have the reactions of the readers of this column to this plan, for what is ultimately done will be largely influenced by what public opinion becomes and says.

OUR CHILDREN

By ANGELO PATRI

PAY AS YOU GO

"Ma, can I have my bank book?"

"What for?"

"I'm going to buy a car."

"Nonsense. How can you buy a car? You have only a hundred and fifty dollars in the bank. Surely you are not going to take that out to buy a car? Why must you have one?"

"It would come in handy this vacation. I can get one for a hundred."

"And then what? Garage fees, gas and oil, and repairs. This is nonsense, I tell you."

"Oh, I'm not going to pay it all at once. I'm going to pay twenty down and five a month."

"You'll be paying for the car for sixteen months. You'll wish you'd never seen it. You know what your father says about paying for dead horses. This will be yours. You can't afford to buy a car. You don't need it. And you must not go into debt. If we did that we wouldn't have a roof over our heads and you wouldn't have that money in the bank."

"That's what you always say. We can't afford it. We have more money than lots of other people in this town and we have less fun. All the other boys are buying cars and things and I can't. It's my own money, ma. Didn't I earn it?"

"It's your own money. You earned it. You can spend it as you like, of course. But remember this. I'm not going to pinch and save to help you throw away money. I understood that you were saving up to buy a college education. Now it's a car on time. This family buys only what it can pay for. You won't get my approval. That's all.

"You're the only mother in this town that talks that way. Nobody pays money down for things. It isn't good business. You pay so much and then each month you pay—"

"We pay as we go or we don't go. The only time I'll approve your going into debt will be when you make your first payment on a home of your own. That's going to be a long time from now. I'll help you save up for your education. I won't help you save for debts that you need not have taken upon yourself."

"Then I may as well give it up. All the other fellows can ride in their cars. What's money for?"

"To pay your way. Better hold on to it when you have it, young sir. When the time to spend comes you'll be all ready. I'm not so certain you'd be ready to meet the installments. Hurry now, set the table. You are going to have broiled steak for dinner. How's that?"

"Pretty good. Pretty good. But I'd like—"

"So would I. I'd like all sorts of things to happen. I've found that they are more likely to happen when I have the money to pay for them than when I can only wish about them. Come on. You can eat this steak and know it is paid for. So is the chair you're sitting on, and so is the house you're living in. Before you spend you save. And you pay as you go. Maybe you won't go so far at the start, but you'll be much farther along at the end. How's the steak?"

LETTER TO BAKER

On July 30, 1917, Andre Tardieu, French high commissioner to the United States, made public, through a letter to Secretary of War Baker, many important facts regarding the present strength of France as a fighting unit.

He was impelled to write, he said, to correct what he termed inaccurate information in American newspapers regarding the military conditions in Europe. He showed in letter that France, after three years of war, was just as vigorous and powerful as at the beginning. Whereas at the beginning of the war France had 1,000,000 men, she had three years later more than 3,000,000.

"The French army," he wrote, "holds more than two-thirds of the western front, that is to say, of the front where the enemy has always directed its chief exertion." In addition, he said, France had completely re-equipped and re-armed the Belgian, Serbian and Greek armies.
